AS HAMBURG SHARES HELD'S FINANCIAL HOUSES

$500,000 Cut From State University System Fund

COMMON SCHOOLS TO GET $5,003,200 UNDER NEW BILL

House Committee Action Gives Educational Department Total of $586,200 More Than Had Been Listed in Budget.

A. & M. SCHOOLS TAKEN FROM LIST

Seven Institutions Face Loss of Funds; State College of Agriculture Cut Nearly $100,000.

Appropriations recommended for the state university system amounting to more than half a million dollars were eliminated by the house appropriations committee Monday afternoon when it restored budget requests for the common schools to $5,003,200. This figure gives the educational department $586,200 more than had been listed in the budget.

Funds requested for seven A. & M. schools and for the Georgia Military College at Milledgeville were eliminated by the committee, which also cut heavily into the budget commission's recommendations for appropriations for the major branches of the university system.

The appropriations were eliminated for the following schools: Georgia Industrial College, Barnesville, $15,000. Georgia Vocational and Trades School, Monroe, $15,000. Georgia Industrial College, Barnesville, $15,000. Seventh District A. & M. Powder Springs, $15,000. Eighth District A. & M. Madison, $15,000. Ninth District A. & M. Clarksville, $15,000. Tenth District A. & M. Granite Hill, $15,000. Georgia Military College, Milledgeville, $8,500.

The committee reduced the appropriation for the state college of agriculture by $84,000 from the budget bill figure of $194,000 to $110,000 for maintenance.

The appropriation for the University of Georgia, at Athens, was reduced from $24,000 to $200,000. Georgia Tech's allotment was reduced from $257,000 to $225,000.

Chairman Cullerpe, of the appropriations committee, announced to the committee that it would not be possible to report the bill to the house today because of the necessity of re-writing it to contain the cuts and the increase voted Monday. The measure probably will go to the house Wednesday.

It was decided to make reductions in virtually all appropriations to raise sufficient revenue to give the common schools $5,003,200 without disturbing the total contained in the budget measure as reported by the budget commission, composed of the governor and state auditor.

Starting at the top of the list of appropriations, the committee voted the following changes, all reductions with the exception of the amount to common schools:

Executive department, from $30,000 to $25,000.
Department of agriculture, from $265,000 to $250,000.
State insurance, from $170,000 to $153,000.
Attorney general, from $10,000 to $9,000.
Department of commerce and labor, from $10,500 to $10,000.
Comptroller-general, from $120,000 to $110,000.
Department of education (common schools), from $4,407,000 to $5,003,200.
Department of vocational education, from $125,000 to $110,000.
State board of forestry, from $30,000 to $25,000.
State board of health, from $148,000 to $125,000.
State board of entomology, from $65,000 to $60,000.

I. C. C. WILL PROBE RAIL MANAGEMENT

Decreased Earnings May Cause Withdrawal of Bonds in New York.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The management practices of American railroads will be scrutinized by the interstate commerce commission before it rules on their petition for increased freight rates, it was announced today.

The investigation, it was said, will be concerned with prices paid for fuel and practices in connection with the handling of coal at tidewater points, lake coal, private freight cars, the spotting of cars at industries and construction and maintenance of sidings for shippers.

Hearing will be held at times and places to be announced later, with Commissioners Eastman, McNamany and Lee presiding.

The commission, in announcing the investigation, said it was proceeding under its own motion. It ordered copies of the order served on all railroads subject to the interstate commerce act.

The danger that many millions of dollars of rail securities will become ineligible for life insurance, savings bank and other investments was emphasized by the decrease in rail earnings, from the five-year average of 2.12 times fixed earnings to a predicted 1.27 times fixed earnings in 1931.

Bonds which do not earn 1.5 times fixed charges are ineligible for savings bank investment in New York state, and the committee warned, will automatically be stricken from the eligible lists early in 1932, unless a marked appreciation develops, or unless the legal requirements are modified.

The life insurance companies and savings banks, which hold about $4,700,000,000 in rail bonds, say 20 of the 67 largest railroads, probably will not earn their fixed charges in 1931, and 22 will earn them less than the legal 1.5 times. While other states do not have regulation as stringent as New York's, the impairment of the values that would follow the bonds' ineligibility in New York would greatly restrict their investment availability.

Pilot and Passenger Slightly Hurt As Plane Crashes in Forced Landing

H. W. "Pete" Clay, of 856 Woodland avenue, S. E., Candler field pilot, and Parsival Cobb, of 299 Parkway drive, N. E., Atlanta aerial photographer, were injured slightly late Monday afternoon during a forced landing in a small corn field back of the "Confederate Soldiers' Home."

LE BRIZ AND DORET ARE FORCED DOWN SHORT OF TOKIO

Frenchmen Land in Siberia; Mexico City Fliers Crash; Hungarian Plane Arrives at Harbor Grace.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Le Briz and Doret, the Tokyo-bound Frenchmen, were forced to land near Nijmudinsk, Siberia, a pair of Hungarians reached Harbor Grace, N. F., last night on a trans-oceanic flight from New York to their homeland and two American aviators left a wrecked airship on a gulf beach and continued toward Mexico City, their goal.

Word of the descent of Joseph Le Briz, Marcel Doret and their mechanic, all of whom left Paris during Saturday night, on a projected nonstop journey to the Japanese capital, was received by aviation authorities at Irkutsk, Siberia.

Alexander Magyar and George Endres reached Harbor Grace, N. F., from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., and hoped for fair weather today to continue to Budapest.

Seti Yerrington and Edward Maloney, Oyster Bay, N. Y., aviators, whose plane crashed south of Brownsville, Texas, came to Tampico in a rescue plane and looked space on a passenger ship to Mexico City, their goal.

Meantime, Laura Ingalls and Reg Robbins and H. S. Jones, prospective trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific fliers, respectively, pushed their takeoff preparations. Miss Ingalls landed in St. Louis on her way to New York, meeting point of her proposed Paris flight. Robbins and Jones returned to Seattle from Alaska for another try at flying nonstop to Tokyo.

FRENCHMEN FORCED DOWN

1,800 MILES FROM GOAL
IRKUTSK, Siberia, July 14.—(Tuesday)—(UP)—Local flying authorities reported today that Joseph Le Briz and Marcel Doret, French fliers attempting a nonstop Paris-Tokyo flight, were forced to land their plane Sunday. However, an unidentified point of their proposed Paris flight, Robbins and Jones returned to Seattle from Alaska for another try at flying nonstop to Tokyo.

Nijmudinsk is almost at the halfway point between Moscow and Tokyo. The fliers were about 1,800 miles short of their goal.

The French plane was last reported officially as it passed Moscow at 7:30 p. m. Sunday. However, an unidentified plane which was thought to be the Hyphen, was reported passing Novosibirsk, Siberia, at 5 p. m. (Moscow time) today.

MAGYAR AND ENDRES END FIRST HOP ON LONG FLIGHT

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., July 13.—(AP)—Alexander Magyar and George Endres brought their plane down here at 6:32 (E. S. T.) today, completing the first leg of their projected flight from New York to Hungary.

The fliers had been in the air 7 hours and 39 minutes since they took off from Roosevelt Field, New York. They left New York at 8:53 (E. S. T.) and had estimated the flight would take them seven hours. They were reported to have landed at Harbor Grace, Eastport, Maine, at 1:15 (E. S. T.).

Hero's Halo Lost by Hoover When He Became President, Says Latest 'Expose' Author

Anonymous Volume Reveals Frivolities and Fallacies of Many Public Figures in Capital Life.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
WASHINGTON, July 13.—(UP)—Another anonymous book assailing public figures, including President Hoover, in outspoken words, appeared here tonight, the second in two days. It is entitled "The Washington Merry-Go-Round" and is published by Horace Liveright.
"Perhaps the most important answer to Herbert Hoover's failure is the fact that deeply ingrained in his makeup are two unfortunate characteristics, fear and vacillation, which, coupled with a petty personal temper, sorely try even his most loyal friends," the book states. This conclusion is identical with that drawn in the other volume, "Mirrors of 1932."
The book intimates Mr. Hoover was pushed into his recent re-election move and was surprised to find it hailed as a master stroke.
"Only time will tell the final story of how Herbert Hoover was pushed into a plan to postpone German reparations and allied debt payments," the unknown writer says. "A plan which Owen D. Young had worked out and which Henry L. Stimson, co-operating with the British government, had urged upon his chief in the White House; a plan which was finally put over on Herbert Hoover through the combined efforts of Charles G. Dawes, Dwight W. Morrow and Andrew W. Mellon, plus a dozen New York bankers who clamored at him in person and by long distance telephone for nearly a month. Finally, his confidence restored by a trip to the hospitable middle west, Mr. Hoover adopted the plan and was never more surprised in his life when it was heralded as his master stroke."
Had Mr. Hoover never attained the presidency, the author says, he might have remained a hero.
"But before the ruthless realities and the merciless tests of that office had been met, Mr. Hoover was a victim of his own character. He was a man of high character, but he was not a man of high vision. He was a man of high integrity, but he was not a man of high courage. He was a man of high ability, but he was not a man of high ambition. He was a man of high principle, but he was not a man of high conviction. He was a man of high character, but he was not a man of high vision. He was a man of high integrity, but he was not a man of high courage. He was a man of high ability, but he was not a man of high ambition. He was a man of high principle, but he was not a man of high conviction."

NEW FILTRATION PLANT IS URGED

Smith Asks Erection of 20,000,000-Gallon Unit; Pollution Feared.

Construction of another 20,000,000-gallon filtration unit for the Atlanta waterworks system and employment of a chief chemist and two assistants to keep a 24-hour vigil over Atlanta's water supply, will be urged this morning by W. Zode Smith, general manager of waterworks, and Alderman J. Charles Murphy, chairman of the finance committee, at a meeting of the committee. Improvements are estimated at $500,000.

Determination to make the recommendations followed a warning from Dr. T. F. Abernethy, state health commissioner, that unless the water is watched carefully there is danger of pollution.

Smith's recommendations will be made at the meeting of the finance committee, at which recommendations of a special committee, headed by Alderman G. Everett Millican, to slash 250 employees from the payroll and effect other economies to save $1,000,000 a year will be studied.

Samuel C. Dobbs, chairman of the board of trustees, was the last head of a department to oppose the proposed economies, saying "human life is too important to be jeopardized by penny-pinching." Millican suggested a saving of about $15,000 annually in operation of Grady. Dobbs and other members of the committee have been invited to appear before the finance committee at this morning's session.

$1,000,000 Issue Proposed To Push City Improvements

A $1,000,000 bond issue to provide a revolving fund for pushing planning projects in Atlanta, to relieve the present and anticipated unemployment in Atlanta, to stabilize and enhance property values and to aid in expediting return of prosperity to Atlanta, was proposed Monday afternoon by Robert R. Otis, chairman of the borough planning commission, at the regular meeting of that body.

Although the commission deferred action on the matter for further study, there was every indication that it will sanction the paper and ask council and the mayor to follow suit. In offering his paper Otis told the commission that under assessment of the value of the city's property, at least $5,000,000 worth of work can be done on the fund, and that many needed improvements can be pushed to immediate completion.

Among the outstanding improvements he proposed were the following:
1. Creation of a battle boulevard, park way drive and institution of a ward park system to reclaim virtually abandoned areas and to attract tourists.
2. Extension of Broad street into Cooper.
3. Widening Whitehall street from Windsor street to the railway track.
4. Completion of the work already begun on Luckie street.
5. Widening of Peachtree street from Ponce de Leon to Twenty-eighth street.
6. Removal of bottle necks at Peachtree and Ellis streets; at Brookwood street and Delaware avenue.

U.S. CONGRESSMAN CHARLES EDWARDS DROPS DEAD HERE

Congressman Dies

Veteran Savannah Representative Fatally Stricken During Visit to Robert Ramspeck.

Representative Charles G. Edwards, 53, of the first Georgia congressional district, died from what was believed to have been a cerebral hemorrhage while in a conference at about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon with two of his colleagues in the Georgia delegation. He was stricken in the office of Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, and died en route to a hospital.

Mr. Edwards, whose home was in Savannah, had been in Atlanta visiting a niece, Mrs. F. C. Everett, 724 Spring street, and had held conferences with political friends in the general assembly since Friday. Monday he had lunch at his niece's home and afterwards took a short nap before going downtown to join Representative W. C. Wright and Representative Ramspeck in the latter's Walton building offices.

Collapse in Chair.

The three colleagues had been talking informally for a few minutes, Mr. Ramspeck said, when Mr. Edwards asked for a glass of water. While waiting for the water he slumped in his chair unconscious. An ambulance was summoned, but doctors pronounced Mr. Edwards dead upon arrival at the hospital. His niece said that while his health had apparently been good he had suffered from high blood pressure the last two years.

Representative Edwards was first elected to congress in 1906, serving 10 years and retiring voluntarily to resume his law practice with Richard M. Lester, of Savannah. The lure of public life attracted him again in 1924 and he was again elected to serve his district. Since that year he had been re-elected every two years.

One of the outstanding political figures of the state, Mr. Edwards was prominent in both the councils of his party and in the halls of the national congress. He was one of the ranking democrats on the house rivers and harbors committee and probably had headed this group if the democrats control the next congress. He was the seventh member of the next house to die and his death restored the republican majority to two.

Practiced at Reidsville.

Mr. Edwards began the practice of law at Reidsville, Ga., immediately after graduating from the University of Georgia in 1898. Born July 2, 1878, in what is now Evans county, he attended the public schools, Gordon Institute at Barnesville and also the Florida State College at Lake City, Fla., an institution since merged with the University of Florida. Two years after he began practicing at Reidsville, he was elected to the Georgia legislature and served two terms.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Ora Beach, of Waycross; one son, Charles Beach Edwards, a practicing attorney of Savannah; four brothers, Leroy Edwards, in the secretary of state's office; Dr. S. O. Edwards, in the U. S. army; and a sister, Mrs. J. B. Edwards, of Greenville, S. C., and Mrs. D. E. Miller, of New Smyrna, Fla.

Judge J. B. Park, in Charge to Jury, Denounces Key's Dry Law Remarks

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—Judge J. B. Park, in his charge to the jury in the case of the grand jury here today, denounced Mayor James L. Key's recent criticisms of the prohibition law, declaring that "such statements coming from high officials tend to create a disrespect for law."

Judge Park cited that "there are many burglaries and holdups in Atlanta and the chances are that discouragement of the prohibition law will not help matters."

WORLD MARKETS AWAITING ACTION

Major Exchanges Register Recoveries After Early Setback.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.
NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—The world's major financial markets that were active today—New York, London and Amsterdam—coolly awaited developments in the German financial crisis after some excited selling in the early trading.

The three major security markets in which there was trading registered substantial recoveries after the early setback. The Berlin market was closed as an emergency measure, and the federal reserve in turn awaited the Amsterdam market quotations of German issues, other than the Dawes and Young plan bond issues, were prohibited.

While official comment from the New York federal reserve bank and other important banking sources was withheld, it was widely rumored in Wall Street that a large credit had been marshaled by private banks for extension to the German Reichsbank, should satisfactory arrangements develop from the conferences at the world bank at Basel.

It was stated in important banking circles that the delicate international political aspects of the situation were such that private banks awaited upon the initiative of the federal reserve, and the federal reserve in turn awaited upon the world bank at Basel.

No comment was available at the federal reserve, and a lengthy meeting was held by the committee of the executive committee.

There were numerous declines of $1 to $2 a share in New York and London, and most of the prominent issues ended the day about unchanged to $2 lower. The price average of 30 representative issues indicated an average net loss of only about $1. Although trading was active in the open market, 400,000 shares changing hands in the first half hour, but these losses were considerably reduced thereafter, and most of the prominent issues ended the day about unchanged to $2 lower.

Foreign exchanges, both in New York and London, were almost completely demoralized, showing most acutely the effects of the trying situation.

'Button, Button' Game Ends in Throbbing Orb

Using your eye for a buttonhole gets monotonous after the third day, according to W. H. North, 22, of 250 Central avenue. Mr. North called at the Grady hospital clinic Monday night to see about something that had got in his eye three days before, while he was working under his car. The first day he thought nothing of it; the second day it began to worry him; a little, and the third day it preyed on his mind.

The examining physician turned back the lid of Mr. North's ailing eye and what should pop out but a button! The button, a relic from the day of its being a button, since it matched the other buttons on Mr. North's shirt.

100 MILLION LOAN RENEWED BY VOTE OF BASEL PARLEY

Funds, While Less Than Sought by Berlin, Expected To Be Enough To Tide Republic Over Immediate Crisis.

BANKS ARE CLOSED TO CHECK "RUNS"

Drastic Decree Orders Institutions Shut Tuesday and Wednesday To Avert More Crashes.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
A definite ray of hope for betterment of Germany's financial situation appeared upon the horizon at midnight when the directors of the World Bank for International Settlements, ending their meeting at Basel, recommended renewal of the rediscount credit of $100,000,000 accorded the reichsbank June 25.

At almost the same time the German government ordered all banks in the nation, except the reichsbank, closed today and Wednesday, with the possibility that the closure order might be extended over a longer time. The rest of the financial world marked time yesterday and last night, with New York and most European financial centers awaiting developments.

White House officials said President Hoover was devoting his entire time to studying the problem. Dispatches from France said that Secretary Mellon was planning to go to London on Thursday or Friday, but state department officials at Washington declared he had not been sent there.

The French government was preparing to place its position regarding financial aid to Germany before Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, who is to arrive in Paris today.

DIRECTORS OF WORLD BANK RENEW $100,000,000 CREDIT

BASEL, Switzerland, July 13.—(AP)—Directors of the World Bank for International Settlements late tonight agreed unanimously to renew the world bank's participation in the rediscount credit of $100,000,000 accorded the reichsbank June 25.

The decision was made as a part of an effort by the world bank directors to save Germany from financial disaster.

The directors sounded an optimistic note by expressing their belief that Germany's economic and budgetary condition is fundamentally sound, despite the crisis brought about by heavy withdrawals of short term capital from the country.

The directors further responded to the appeal of Dr. Hans Luther, president of the reichsbank, by declaring that the world bank is ready to collaborate fully with the various governments to obtain financial assistance for Germany on their respective markets.

In well-informed circles it was believed that the decision would be a turning point in the crisis.

WORLD BANK AIDS STRICKEN GERMANY

It was announced that the German government had accepted the offer of assistance from the World Bank, which had been made available to Germany on the condition that the government should accept the bank's terms.

The bank's terms included the requirement that Germany should accept the bank's supervision of its financial affairs, and that the bank should have the right to appoint a representative to the German government.

present circumstance and declares it self ready to collaborate therein to assist it by all means at the disposal of central banks.

"The board has authorized its president to renew its participation, in accordance with the terms of the agreement, in the redemptive credit previously accorded the German reichsbank."

Confidence was felt in authoritative quarters here tonight that the measures adopted by the bank's directors would enable Germany to help herself to such an extent that confidence will eventually be restored and the threat against her financial stability removed.

It was understood that the Bank of France is ready to agree to the renewal of its share of the $100,000,000 redemptive credit which the World Bank signified its willingness to renew and that the Federal Reserve Bank of the United States probably will also agree.

Two private banking houses in Berlin, both of which operated in partnership with the Reichsbank, closed their doors

These were Schwarz, Goldschmidt and Company and Gebrüder Hammerstein.

In Frankfurt-on-Main the private house of Otto Hirsch and Company, also closely affiliated with the Danat, or Darmstädter bank, was suspended.

The cabinet, which has been in almost continuous session for more than two days, called a halt tonight. The members had to let up to get some sleep.

A government official said that the opinion prevailed that there was no occasion for further measures until two things were known—the result of the efforts of Dr. Hans Luther, reichsbank president, to obtain credits at the Bank for International Settlements meeting in Basel, and the effect on the masses of the government's taking over the Danat.

more hopeful atmosphere in the meeting

Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, shortly after Mr. Stimson's arrival in Paris.

Premier Pierre Laval and Finance Minister Flandin, both of whom interrupted their holidays on account of the German crisis, conferred for an hour this evening at the ministry of the interior.

After the meeting, M. Laval confirmed his announcement to the fact that they had discussed the situation created in Germany by the closing of the Darmstädter and Nationalbank and by appeals for help by the German government.

The premier said he anticipated no further ministerial meetings until Friday's cabinet meeting, at which developments in the German situation will be considered.

might be threshed out and important decisions made affecting the future

Reports were persistent in London that German hopes of a huge credit had borne fruit and that American and British bankers were undertaking to supply the capital needed to steady the situation.

Authorities, professing ignorance of any such arrangement, said that a move of the sort might be forthcoming at Basel but hardly elsewhere.

Andrew Mellon said he anticipated no further ministerial meetings until Friday's cabinet meeting, at which developments in the German situation will be considered.

Observers believed that while France would watch intently the financial and political drama beyond the Rhine, it was prepared to go to Germany's assistance only in concert with other countries.

STIMSON TALKS INFORMALLY WITH ROME AMBASSADOR

ROME, July 13.—(P)—Secretary of State Stimson had an informal talk over luncheon at the American embassy today with the British, French and German ambassadors to Italy, who visited him to pay their respects.

The trips that Mr. Stimson will make to Paris, London and Berlin were discussed. The social gathering also afforded the secretary of state an opportunity to tell the ambassadors about the political talks he has had in Italy.

Tomorrow afternoon Mr. Stimson will leave for Paris.

MANN ACT VIOLATION CHARGED IN MARRIAGE

HIGH POINT, N. C., July 13.—(AP)—Jack Overby, charged with juries Dorothy Preston McCandless, 17-year-old daughter of a college professor, away from home and then marrying her under false pretenses, waived a preliminary hearing here today and was turned over to federal authorities who said he would be charged with violating the Mann act.

MOTORING was almost becoming commonplace.

Some men were saying: "I don't care anything about automobiles; I buy a car for transportation."

Then Studebaker gave us Free Wheeling and put the thrill back into motoring (and a 15% to 20% saving in oil and gas). Now adults get the same joy out of driving a car that children get out of tobogganing, skating or chuting the chutes.

Motoring is again an OUTDOOR SPORT.

Now that you can buy a Free Wheeling Studebaker for $845, it's perfectly all to buy a car without it—aren't I right?

This $845 Studebaker, by the way, is the lowest priced Six with Free Wheeling as standard equipment—engineered from tip to tail to give you the fullest benefits of Free Wheeling in its finest form.

MOTOR CARRIERS ACT
HELDS CONSTITUTIONAL

Superior Court Judge Rules
Against Petition Enjoining Tax Collections.

Possibility that the fight against the 1931 motor carriers' tax passed at the special session of the Georgia general assembly may be taken into the United States supreme court was a number of bus lines prepared Monday night to appeal the case following a ruling Monday morning by Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton superior court that the act was valid and constitutional.

Attorneys for the bus lines who sought to enjoin Comptroller General William B. Harrison from collecting the tax on their carriers, stated that an appeal will be made at once to the supreme court and that if the fight is lost there, it will be taken to the United States tribunal.

The motor bus and truck operators sought the injunction on the grounds that it was confiscatory and discriminating.

In handing down his decision, Judge Howard stated that the order denied the petition for the injunction and, in effect, held the motor bus tax to be constitutional and not void for any of the reasons advanced. He added that he was not altogether free from doubt as to one or two of the grounds of attack made on the act, but that in case of doubt, the law made it his duty to decide in favor of its constitutionality.

He stated that he had tried few cases in his experience as judge where the attorneys on both sides presented such able arguments, and referred in a complimentary way to a short "but clear and strong" argument by Francis Gilbert, the youngest attorney associated in the case. Gilbert is the son of Judge S. Price Gilbert, associate justice of the state supreme court.

Attorneys for the bus companies included the firms of Gilbert & Marshall, Haas & Gambrell, Daniel McDougald, Judge Horace Holden, Broadus Zellers, Senator Hamilton McWhorter; counsel for the comptroller-general includes Robert B. Troutman, T. R. Gross, Assistant Attorney General S. S. Sams, J. P. Wilhoit and George M. Napier, attorney general.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA POLICIES UNCHANGED

That there will be no change in the general policies of the Central of Georgia railway is the assertion of H. D. Pollard, recently elected president of that railroad, in a statement published today. Mr. Pollard says:

"As a permanent institution serving the public, a railroad must follow policies which experience has shown to be for the best interest of both the railroad and the public it serves. Those principles which have characterized the policy of the Central of Georgia in the past will be followed in the future."

CHRISTIAN COUNCIL HITS WHIPPING BILL

Resolutions condemning the lash as a means of correcting prisoners, and urging legislators to resist passage of the whipping bill, which has been approved by the penitentiary committee of the house, have been adopted by the Christian Council of Atlanta, it was announced Monday.

"Passage of such an act by our legislature would constitute a long backward step toward the practices of the dark ages, thus besmirching the good name of the people of our great state," the resolutions declare. The paper points out that the lash is prohibited in 36 states, and "to reinstate the practice would be to admit to the world that Georgia is not able to keep abreast of other states in the onward growth of constructive, intelligent and humane prison administration."

APPEAL OF TAYLOR TO BE HEARD TODAY

The appeal of ex-City Clerk Walter C. Taylor on a three-count bribery conviction will be heard today in the state court of appeals. The case involves alleged bribes of $9,000 paid by George C. Spence, attorney, in a viaduct damage claim matter, $2,500 paid by Samuel N. Evans, attorney, for the Atlantic Steel Company, in fighting annexation, and $500 paid by M. P. Roane for paving of sidewalks on West Peachtree. Taylor was given 26 months and a $500 fine on conviction in Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy's division of Fulton superior court.

KARMEKORN STORE WILL OPEN TODAY

Fred C. Marzies has acquired the distribution and retail sales rights in Atlanta for a new popular confection which is being marketed under the trade name "Karmekorn." Mr. Marzies opens the first of his stores at Edgewood and Pryor streets today and contemplates the opening of four other stores in the very near future. Karmekorn is now being sold in 35 stores which are operating in 20 western and midwestern states, and the new confection is, according to Mr. Marzies, meeting with universal approval. Free samples of Karmekorn will be given away at the store today and Wednesday.

HARDING CONFIDANT IN SERIOUS CONDITION

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 13.—(AP)—Hoke Donithen, 57, Marion attorney and lifelong friend and close political associate of the late President Harding, was in serious condition at Grant hospital here today.

Donithen entered the hospital Friday and an emergency operation was performed at noon today. Physicians would not state the nature of the operation.

Donithen headed the Harding Memorial Association at Marion and prepared all plans for the dedication of the marble memorial last month by President Hoover and former President Calvin Coolidge.

Youth Rescues Friend From Tension Wire

Coolness and presence of mind displayed by Harvey Segars, 14, of 5555 Western avenue, probably saved the life of Britt Yancey, 10, of the Brown Mill road, when the latter was held prisoner on a high tension wire Monday, near the Fulton county industrial farm.

Britt's fingers came in contact with the wire while he was climbing a tree and the boy was unable to loosen his grip. Segars obtained an insulated wire and, climbing the tree, looped it about Britt's fingers, pulling them free. The injured youth was treated at Grady hospital for severe burns and allowed to return to his home.

Atlanta Sailors,
On U.S.S. Taylor,
Reach Key West

U. S. S. TAYLOR, KEY WEST, Fla., July 13.—Atlanta naval reservists on the U. S. S. Taylor arrived here at noon today, making their first port of call after embarking at Savannah at 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

On the long leg down the Florida coast, the destroyer was manned by Atlanta reserves throughout the entire time, each man having opportunity to stand watch in various stations in the fire and engine rooms and on deck while reserve officers navigated the ship as regular officers and men supervised.

First cases of sunburn had eased today, and sea sickness experienced by some of the reserves was almost forgotten as fire, collision, abandon ship and man overboard drills were held this morning.

Atlanta's outfit met the New Orleans reserves here. The two units will cruise together. Assignments have been made for gun crews who will drill preceding the arrival at Nassau Friday. In addition to competitive naval drills, the Atlantans will battle the New Orleans outfit on the baseball diamond at Nassau. Departure from Key West is scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Williams Returning.

LONDON, July 13.—(AP)—Lieutenant Al Williams, American speed flyer, will start for home tomorrow on the Leviathan, having recruited several of Europe's leading pilots for the national air races at Cleveland.

PROPOSAL TO MERGE FORESTRY WORK HIT

Protest Against Abolition of Department Voiced by T. G. Woolford.

Further protest against the feature of the state government reorganization bill which places the forestry department under the proposed new department of natural resources was voiced Monday by T. G. Woolford, president of the Georgia Forestry Association.

clation, in a letter to Senator Hugh Peterson, chairman of the special committee, which made the recommendation.

"It is distressing to me and to others," Woolford wrote, "who have so diligently given their time and means toward establishing the Georgia forest service to where it is today to see the reorganization committee express so much animus towards this group of forestry people who have had to fight every inch of the way to get forestry where it is today in Georgia."

The bill, Woolford claims, would place forestry "in the hands of an inexperienced man to do with as he pleases. As drawn, it gives the director more authority and power than it does the governor and if enacted the senate and house would have no authority or further power until they meet again in 1933."

Circulars put out by the association charge that Peterson "frankly" informed forestry officials "that they propose to force us into politics whether we want to or not."

NEW PAVED ROAD
SOUGHT TO FLORIDA

The opening and paving of a direct highway from Valdosta to Jacksonville will be discussed with the state highway board today, Judge Harley Langdale, of Valdosta, president of the association formed to promote the proposed new road, announced Monday. Judge Langdale pointed out that the new highway would traverse one of the largest areas in Georgia which at present has nothing better than ordinary country or community roads. The route would pass directly through much of the great Suwannee forest, an estate of more than 250,000 acres of virgin long leaf yellow pine, Judge Langdale said. At present Jacksonville is reached by a paved road over a circuitous route. The proposed route would pass through Lowndes, Echols and Clinch counties in Georgia into Nassau county, Florida, into Charlton county, Georgia, and thence into Duval county, Florida, and on to Jacksonville.

"It is part of my business to notice the types of tobacco bought by various concerns. In all instances, The American Tobacco Company's buyers select that rich, mellow type of tobacco that the farmer justly calls 'The Cream of the Crop' for their brand of LUCKY STRIKE."

These are the very words of an experienced tobacco buyer on the Southern market.

LUCKY STRIKE not only promises but gives you the very finest of each season's tobacco crop. We pay the highest prices to be sure of getting the Cream of the Crop. And then to be sure that you get the greatest enjoyment, we "TOAST" these fine tobaccos—thereby expelling certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. # U. S. CONGRESSMAN CHARLES EDWARDS DROPS DEAD HERE

He was announced today from Savannah, where the body was taken.

Ramspeck Feels Loss.

"Representative Edwards was one of the most industrious and capable members of the Georgia delegation," his colleague, Representative Ramspeck, said. "He was active not only in behalf of his own district but for the benefit of the whole state. . . . I feel a keen loss in his death because I have known him since I served in Washington as secretary to then Congressman Howard. He was the only member of the present Georgia delegation who served with Mr. Howard."

Shelby Myrick, a member of the Chatham county delegation in the general assembly and a fellow lawyer of Mr. Edwards in Savannah, said: "His death not only will be a great loss to Savannah and the first district but a distinct loss to the entire state. He ranked high in congress as well as in the councils of the democratic party.

Efficient Servant.

"His long service in congress had fitted him for most efficient service to his constituents and his people honored him with a seat in congress, where, with the exception of a few years, he remained with the esteem of the people of the state. By reason of his high position on the rivers and harbors committee, which committee so vitally concerns Georgia's two port cities, his death will seriously affect their interests. Charles Edwards was just in the prime of life, at the very height of his career and his death was most untimely. It will be deeply lamented and deplored wherever he was known."

FOULLOIS TO HEAD ARMY AIR FORCES

Brigadier Will Succeed
General Fehet on December 20.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The longest flying career in the army will reach a climax next December, when Brigadier General Benjamin D. Foulois becomes chief of the air corps.

The war department today announced his promotion, effective December 20, to succeed Major General James E. Fehet.

One of the pioneers in the development of aviation through association with the Wright brothers, Foulois is almost the father of the army air service.

He flew the first airplane and the first dirigible balloon purchased for the army and in 1910, when the appropriation for the air service was only $150, he contributed 300 from his own pay to make up a deficit.

At that time he was serving on the Mexican border and virtually took a correspondence course in aviation from the Wright brothers. When something went wrong, he would write to the Wrights and they would advise him by mail what changes to make in the plane or the operation of it.

Foulois was detailed to the signal corps in 1908 and immediately began specializing in aviation work.

He was assigned to take a course in flying from the Wright brothers in 1909, and during that year participated as an observer with Orville Wright in the first cross-country flight in America. They flew 10 miles, averaging 42 miles an hour, at an altitude of 600 feet, establishing three world records.

One of the reasons for the selection of Foulois for this work was his small stature. In those days men weighing more than 150 pounds were virtually barred from the air.

Foulois served in the army during the Spanish-American war as a non-commissioned officer at the age of 18. He enlisted in the regular army at the close of the war and served in the Philippines. He was commissioned second lieutenant of infantry in 1901 and served in Cuba.

During the World War he was a brigadier general in the signal corps and was chief of the service of the American Expeditionary Forces from November, 1917, to May, 1918. He was 38 years old at that time and the youngest brigadier general in the army. He became assistant chief of the air corps in 1927.

The war department today announced the promotion of 10 other general officers as follows:

122ND TRAINING WORK TO BE STARTED TODAY

PORT MCLELLAN, Ala., July 13.—With preliminaries of making camp ended and everything in readiness for the vigorous summer training schedule of the 122d infantry, beginning tomorrow, more than 1,200 young Georgians tonight slept only as the tired can sleep. Hundreds of tents stand clustered in groups on this regular army camp site and each tent is ready to give up long before sunrise Tuesday morning its occupants to army and national guard officers who will direct their training, their eating and sleeping and generally take complete charge of their lives for 15 days.

Reveille will arouse the embryo soldiers at 5 o'clock and 15 minutes later the entire north Georgia regiment will assemble on the drill field for massed calisthenics. At 6 o'clock breakfast is ready—plenty of "ham and" and accessories which are provided by Uncle Sam to appease the big appetites of his soldiers in the making. At 7 o'clock the day's work will be under way and continue in its varied phases until noon, when dinner is ready. The afternoon for the coming training period will be given over to organized athletics and other forms of wholesome entertainment until 4 o'clock when the daily regimental parade is staged. After that there is an hour or so of freedom, then dinner, then freedom again until 10 o'clock when all lights are out.

Although the night demonstration staged annually by the regiment is several days off, much interest is manifested and this year's program is expected to be witnessed by many notables, including Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia; General Frank R. McCoy, commanding the fourth corps area; Adjutant General Charles H. Cox, of Georgia, high state and city and Fulton county officials. The Governor of Alabama has been invited and has advised Colonel O'Keeffe that he plans to attend along with members of his staff and prominent Alabama leaders. The night show is set for Wednesday, July 22, and will see thousands of dollars worth of tracer ammunition, very pistols, flares, rockets, bombs, etc., expended in a brilliant pyrotechnic display. The regiment will attack an imaginary enemy supported by the 30th tank corps, of north Georgia; the 108th aero squadron, and the 60th anti-aircraft group, Alto, Ala.

ing's session, which begins at 10 o'clock.

The only danger of pollution in Atlanta's water is due to untreated sewage which is thrown into the stream farther up the Chattahoochee river, from which Atlanta gets its water supply.

Need for immediate start on the $15,000,000 sewer development program was emphasized by the danger, because of the fact that Atlanta pours daily untreated sewage estimated at 5,000,000 gallons into the Chattahoochee river. The bill is now pending in the Georgia assembly to form a sewer district of metropolitan Atlanta to permit start of work on the system.

With the water in the Chattahoochee at its present low level, there is danger of pollution unless it is watched carefully, authorities point out, and Smith said he and other attaches of the department are being especially vigilant.

Present filtration plants can handle 30,000,000 gallons every 24 hours, but recently the drain was for 41,500,000 gallons.

Mayor James L. Key and Murphy were in conference at various times Monday with Smith and all agreed that no work which would assure Atlantans an adequate and pure water supply should be neglected.

Dr. Abernethy did not comment on the Atlanta water situation except to say that the state department is advising and co-operating with the city in an effort to get the matter straightened out.

Traces of contamination, probably due to uneven chlorination, have been found in several recent tests of the city water, but not in dangerous or alarming quantities, although the situation might become critical if the condition is not corrected, it was said.

GEORGE APPEALS FOR TARIFF CUTS

Senator Asks Hoover's
Aid in Lowering Trade
Barriers for Customers.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, July 13.—Joining with other of his colleagues who have demanded a downward revision of the tariff as an aid to world economic illis, Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, a member of the senate finance committee, today called upon President Hoover to invoke the assistance of the federal tariff commission in eliminating "those unwarranted and especially burdensome duties on the trade and commerce of so many of our best customer nations."

The Georgia senator said that it was not necessary for the president to invite a congressional revision of the tariff with the attendant legislative uncertainty. Through flexible provisions of the tariff commission the president, he emphasized, already has an agency at his command for the removal of trade barriers imposed by the Smoot-Hawley tariff act.

Senator George issued his statement on the tariff situation on the eve of returning to Georgia after a week spent in Washington attending receptions of the senate privileges and elections committee which is considering the Bankhead-Heflin contest in Alabama. He will drive through to his home in Vienna, leaving Tuesday morning.

Hoover Plan Supported.

"The president's plan to suspend for one year the payment of inter-governmental debts has received cordial assurances of support by representatives of both political parties," he said. "The ultimate value of the moratorium lies in the use we shall make of it."

"If we shall indicate by our actions the purpose to abandon the embargo theory of tariff and to adopt a more liberal trade policy, the history of tariff making in Europe justifies a belief that European nations may eliminate many of the trade barriers erected by them against other nations, including the United States, thereby setting in normal motion the currents of world trade in the current of 1925 and 1926 there were marked upward revisions of the tariff in the 16 European countries. This tendency was apparently checked by the bankers' manifesto of 1926, the report of the world economic conference in 1927 and other statements from the leading financiers and industrialists of the world.

"In 1927 upward revisions of the tariff occurred in only 10 European countries; in 1928 five, and in 1929 probably only two countries continued the policy. In 1929 congress was called in extraordinary session and invited to make a limited revision of the tariff in the interest of agriculture and a few industries suffering from insupportable foreign competition. Political necessity and expediency, however, led to a general revision of the tariff.

High Tariffs Follow.

"The result is the Smoot-Hawley act. The further result is the erection of retaliation tariffs by many countries of Europe, by some countries in the near future, and from every quarter. Drastic reduction in foreign commerce, both exports and imports, has followed. This decline is due in great part to the world depression, but exports from the United States fell approximately 21 per cent during the first six months of 1930; while British exports declined about 15 per cent, Italy about 11 per cent, and France about 5.5 per cent.

"Excess European tariffs have most certainly contributed to the general depression and we have not, of course, escaped the consequences of that depression. The president's views regarding the tariff are known. He himself recognized inequalities in the present tariff. Upon his insistence the executive flexible provision was retained in the act. It is not necessary that the president invite a congressional revision of the tariff. With the assistance of the tariff commission he may eliminate those unwarranted and especially burdensome duties on the trade and commerce of so many of our best customer nations.

"President Hoover properly recognizes that military and naval disarmament must come by international agreement; likewise economic disarmament.

"There is not the slightest disposition to criticize or embarrass the efforts thus far made by the president to stabilize world conditions, and a downward revision of tariffs here and in Europe may well be expected to hasten materially the return of normal conditions."

BALLOT BOX STUFFING IS CHARGED BY HEFLIN

Bankhead Counsel Denies Accusation in Hearing by Senate Group.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Charges of ballot box stuffing were made and denied today to the senate election subcommittee inquiring into the Hefflin-Bankhead senatorial election contest in Alabama.

Horace M. Wilkinson, counsel for J. Thomas Hefflin, defeated candidate, sent to Chairman Hastings, of the election subcommittee, two affidavits received from the senate campaign funds committee charging that Caine O'Rear, counsel for John H. Mr. Wilkinson asked Senator Hastings' committee to investigate the affidavits and if he found the charges true to exclude Mr. O'Rear from the counting room where he is representing Mr. Bankhead in the senate race.

Mr. O'Rear promptly issued a statement today denying the charge and adding that "no one called attention to any alleged irregularity at the time."

Mr. Wilkinson said the affidavits were signed by the Rev. V. C. Kincaid and Freeman J. Conner. The incident was alleged to have occurred at the polling box in the courthouse at Jasper.

'RACKETEERING' SEEN IN BIRMINGHAM BLAST

Ambulance Operator Reports Being Threatened After Explosion.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 13.—(AP)—Three men were held for questioning by police tonight in connection with the bombing of the Pure Milk Company last Friday night, which officers said they believed was the work of "big town racketeers" in their first attempt to collect tribute from various lines of business here.

Two of the men under arrest, who officers said gave their names as Byron Phillips and Red Warren, were arrested at Argo, a small town 20 miles from here today. In their possession officers said they found a small coupe bearing an Illinois license plate.

The third man, Eldridge McCord, former city fireman, was taken into custody Saturday night. He was said to have been identified as the driver of an automobile, mounted with machine guns, which stopped at a garage a few minutes after the bombing, for repairs.

The investigation took a new turn today when an informer reported he had been warned in a telephone message to increase his charge for transporting sick persons from their homes to hospitals. The largest of his drivers was told to "don't forget," by the occupant of an automobile which pulled up by an ambulance.

Two hours after the milk plant was bombed, causing the death of two persons and injury to 20 others, a barbershop in Central Park, a suburb, was bombed and another was threatened Saturday. A separate investigation was under way in this case.

The milk plant which wrecked the milk plant was tossed from a small coupe occupied by two men. This machine was trailed by another larger car which police said probably followed as a "cover up."

Rewards totaling $2,000 had been offered tonight for the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the milk plant bombing. Governor B. M. Miller met with county and city authorities Saturday and authorized a reward of $1,000, the largest the state can offer, and promised any state aid needed in the investigation.

Sanction of the proposal to divert $487,000 annually from Fulton county coffers to the borough and a study of relief of overcrowding in Atlanta schools next fall are the major matters to be considered by the Atlanta board of education at its July meeting this afternoon.

C. F. Palmer, of Atlanta, president of the National Association of Business Owners and Managers, delivered the opening address of the 24th annual convention of the association Monday in Seattle, Wash.

The tobacco market at Thomasville will not be in operation this season, the state department of agriculture announced Monday. A short crop was given as the reason. Other markets in Georgia will open July 28.

Fielder Herren, of 2059 DeKalb avenue, employee at the Nelson street plant of the City Ice Delivery Company, was held up by a negro bandit Monday night and robbed of $13, according to police reports. Herren told police the negro thrust a pistol through the wicket behind which he was working, and forced him to give up the contents of the cash drawer.

Roth Johnson, witness in the case of Clyde Alley, charged with the murder of J. C. Bruce, for whom a writ of habeas corpus was filed last week to have her released from custody as a material witness, had not been given her freedom Monday night. An agreement was reached Monday whereby a $2,500 bond was reduced to $100 and the habeas corpus proceedings were withdrawn. At midnight Monday night she had failed to post the $100 bond.

Warning the public that no provision for continuing any of the work of the state department of public welfare is contained in the reorganization bill now before the legislature, J. P. Faulkner, executive secretary of the state board of public welfare, Monday issued a statement asserting that the department's work has the indorsement of the leading organizations and citizens of the state.

Confusion has arisen in the public mind regarding the status of the department in the bill, as it was the belief of the board of public welfare and the public generally that while the board governing the department was to be abolished, the functions of the department would be transferred to the proposed board of control of the eleemosynary institutions, Faulkner said.

"The interest of the board is not to perpetuate itself or retain its identity, but it feels very definitely its responsibility to the underprivileged and needy children of the state," Mr. Faulkner said. "Members of the board receive no per diem and freely give their time to the work of the state. The department has the responsibility of carrying out provisions of the Georgia child placing act, and yet no reference is made in this act, either in the report or the reorganization bill. This is an indication of the lack of adequate information about the department on the part of the committee. The department has been assisting in the care of 991 children during this year."

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 13.—(AP)—Three men were held for questioning by police tonight in connection with the bombing of the Pure Milk Company last Friday night, which officers said they believed was the work of "big town racketeers" in their first attempt to collect tribute from various lines of business here.

Two of the men under arrest, who officers said gave their names as Byron Phillips and Red Warren, were arrested at Argo, a small town 20 miles from here today. In their possession officers said they found a small coupe bearing an Illinois license plate.

The third man, Eldridge McCord, former city fireman, was taken into custody Saturday night. He was said to have been identified as the driver of an automobile, mounted with machine guns, which stopped at a garage a few minutes after the bombing, for repairs.

The investigation took a new turn today when an informer reported he had been warned in a telephone message to increase his charge for transporting sick persons from their homes to hospitals. The largest of his drivers was told to "don't forget," by the occupant of an automobile which pulled up by an ambulance.

Two hours after the milk plant was bombed, causing the death of two persons and injury to 20 others, a barbershop in Central Park, a suburb, was bombed and another was threatened Saturday. A separate investigation was under way in this case.

The milk plant which wrecked the milk plant was tossed from a small coupe occupied by two men. This machine was trailed by another larger car which police said probably followed as a "cover up."

Rewards totaling $2,000 had been offered tonight for the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the milk plant bombing. Governor B. M. Miller met with county and city authorities Saturday and authorized a reward of $1,000, the largest the state can offer, and promised any state aid needed in the investigation.

Sanction of the proposal to divert $487,000 annually from Fulton county coffers to the borough and a study of relief of overcrowding in Atlanta schools next fall are the major matters to be considered by the Atlanta board of education at its July meeting this afternoon.

C. F. Palmer, of Atlanta, president of the National Association of Business Owners and Managers, delivered the opening address of the 24th annual convention of the association Monday in Seattle, Wash.

The tobacco market at Thomasville will not be in operation this season, the state department of agriculture announced Monday. A short crop was given as the reason. Other markets in Georgia will open July 28.

Fielder Herren, of 2059 DeKalb avenue, employee at the Nelson street plant of the City Ice Delivery Company, was held up by a negro bandit Monday night and robbed of $13, according to police reports. Herren told police the negro thrust a pistol through the wicket behind which he was working, and forced him to give up the contents of the cash drawer.

Roth Johnson, witness in the case of Clyde Alley, charged with the murder of J. C. Bruce, for whom a writ of habeas corpus was filed last week to have her released from custody as a material witness, had not been given her freedom Monday night. An agreement was reached Monday whereby a $2,500 bond was reduced to $100 and the habeas corpus proceedings were withdrawn. At midnight Monday night she had failed to post the $100 bond.

Warning the public that no provision for continuing any of the work of the state department of public welfare is contained in the reorganization bill now before the legislature, J. P. Faulkner, executive secretary of the state board of public welfare, Monday issued a statement asserting that the department's work has the indorsement of the leading organizations and citizens of the state.

Confusion has arisen in the public mind regarding the status of the department in the bill, as it was the belief of the board of public welfare and the public generally that while the board governing the department was to be abolished, the functions of the department would be transferred to the proposed board of control of the eleemosynary institutions, Faulkner said.

"The interest of the board is not to perpetuate itself or retain its identity, but it feels very definitely its responsibility to the underprivileged and needy children of the state," Mr. Faulkner said. "Members of the board receive no per diem and freely give their time to the work of the state. The department has the responsibility of carrying out provisions of the Georgia child placing act, and yet no reference is made in this act, either in the report or the reorganization bill. This is an indication of the lack of adequate information about the department on the part of the committee. The department has been assisting in the care of 991 children during this year."

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 13.—(AP)—Proposal to purchase or condemn a strip of land a mile and a half long on the estate of John D. Rockefeller was contained in a plan for a new parkway presented today to the Westchester county board of supervisors.

The proposed roadway would go through the heart of the 10,000-acre Rockefeller estate and less than a mile north of the Rockefeller mansion. It would bisect a number of private roads and bridge paths on which Mr. Rockefeller has spent $1,000,000 in the last two years.

Nine years ago a similar proposal was dropped.

MINE WORKERS' HEADS CONFER ON TROUBLES

Three-Hour Session With Two Cabinet Members
Brings No Result.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Representatives of the United Mine Workers of America importuned two cabinet members today for a government conference on the bituminous coal industry's troubles.

No conclusions were reached, however, at the three-hour meeting. Another conference will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Neither Secretary Daugherty nor John L. Lewis, president of the mine workers, would give the slightest sign of optimism as they adjourned. Secretary Lamont, the other government official, would not comment.

Representatives of the mine operators conferred last week with Lamont and Daugherty, but said they could see no benefits to be accomplished by a general meeting of various elements in the industry.

Lewis indicated he felt the government should not be put aside by the unwillingness of the owners to confer but should demand their participation.

Little Chance Held For Soldier After Swallowing Teeth

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—With removable bridge and two artificial teeth in his esophagus, Private Olaf Nelson arrived at Walter Reid hospital today after an air race for his life from El Paso, Texas.

Major Roy Brown, army surgeon, said after an examination "it is extremely doubtful whether we can save him."

Nelson was conscious at the end of the 24-hour flight in an ambulance plane. He asked for water as he was borne into the hospital.

Major Daniel Franklin, of William Beaumont general hospital, who accompanied Nelson, told the story thus: "On Saturday morning Nelson was eating bananas for breakfast. He swallowed the removable bridge and two teeth—about five centimeters down. He tried to remove it with his fingers and pushed it down."

"We made two attempts to remove the teeth. Both were unsuccessful. Now the two teeth, with two prongs projecting from each side, lie directly across the esophagus about 25 centimeters from the front teeth."

MIAMI, Fla., July 13.—(AP)—Seven municipal executives, including the police and fire chiefs, the finance director and the service director, were replaced by D. C. Coleman, newly appointed city manager today.

The changes, Mr. Coleman said, were made in the interest of economy.

The department of public service was combined with the department of Coconut Grove and the city waste division under the direction of William Scow, formerly head of the Coconut Grove department and waste division. Ernest Cotton had been head of the public service department.

WHOLESALE HOUSES BURNED IN NASHVILLE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 13.—(AP)—Spectacular midday fire in the downtown district today caused a loss estimated at $100,000 by firemen.

Thirteen workers in the building occupied by Elmer & Co., clothing manufacturers, and H. J. Heinz & Co. were burned slightly.

George Lewis, a Tennessee Electric Power Company lineman, saved himself and probably a number of spectators from death or injury when he held a broken power pole erect by its wires until fellow workers could prop it up. At the top the pole, he had cut the wires when he felt the pole sway toward massed spectators.

Neither Stanley Vail, vice president of Elmer & Co., nor Heinz & Co. officials made an estimate of the damage.

TEACHERS IN CHICAGO OFFERED PAY IN SCRIPT

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP)—The Chicago board of education ended a controversy of several months by deciding today to pay teachers and other employees with script, or certificates issued against tax anticipation warrants not yet sold.

James A. Longway, chairman of the finance committee, said that "nobody is forced to accept the participation certificates, but all who want them can get them at the secretary's office."

The teachers who have not been paid since April, had resolved not to accept payment in script, which will bear six per cent interest until $5,250,000 in tax anticipation warrants are sold.

14 PRISONERS ON WAY TO ATLANTA PEN

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—Four federal prisoners, Fred Wadsworth, left Jersey City with 10 other convicts, recently sentenced, for Atlanta penitentiary today.

The men returning from Fort Wadsworth are Paul Raskin, Joseph Rubman, Saul Perelman and Joseph Buchinski.

Arrangements for the journey were made quietly and it was in the marshal's office the fact that a Pullman carload of prisoners had left Jersey City was not known before the train departed.

Deputy Marshal John W. Pinkley and others guarded the prisoners.

NAVY WILL ASK BIDS ON NEW DESTROYERS

Specifications Virtually Completed for Eleven Vessels of 1,500 Tons.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—For the first time since the war the navy will advertise on Wednesday for bids on a group of new destroyers.

Specifications virtually completed today for 11 new vessels, the first of this class the navy has undertaken since 1918, call for a bigger, more rugged ship with heavier armament and a higher sustained sea speed than the present destroyers.

The new craft will be of 1,500 tons displacement, the limit under the London treaty, compared to 1,200 tons for the present destroyers which were designed in 1916.

Estimates will be invited from private companies and from all shipbuilding navy yards except those at Philadelphia, Portsmouth, N. H., and Norfolk, Va., which already have heavy construction programs under way.

Construction of one of the 11 has already been awarded. To avoid an expected drop in the work load at the New York navy yard, it was announced two months ago that one of them would be built there without the necessity of submitting estimates.

The estimated cost of the new destroyers is $4,700,000 each as compared with the $2,000,000 average cost of those constructed at the time of the World War.

DUNCAN RENALDO WINS IN CITIZENSHIP FIGHT

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Duncan Renaldo, film actor who rose to stardom in "Trader Horn," has won the right to stay in the United States unless the labor department can find conclusive proof he is an alien.

A warrant of arrest issued some time ago for him has been quashed, officials said tonight, because the government could not prove its original charge that he was a Rumanian.

The film star, officials said, contended he was born an American in Camden, N. J., and taken to Rumania when very small. He said he came to the United States in 1923 as a seaman, leaving in 1929 on an American passport to Africa to make "Trader Horn."

Following the challenging of his citizenship, inquiry in Rumania disclosed a birth certificate for a man of similar history but a different name.

MISSING ORLEANS MAN FOUND DEAD ON FARM

BATON ROUGE, La., July 13.—(AP)—A headless body, believed by police to be that of Earl Miles, missing New Orleans youth and sportsman, was found today in a ditch on a deserted plantation only a few yards from a side highway about 10 miles south of here.

Search of the ditch failed to reveal the head.

The body, discovered by a negro farmhand, had been disposed of by the killers five miles from a swimming hole off Perkins road, where last Wednesday sheriff's deputies located a bloodstreaked rented coach in which Miles left New Orleans a week ago with two unidentified companions.

NEW ORLEANS POLICE RAID ILLEGAL 'BOOKIES'

NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—(AP)—Operators of illegal race-horse betting establishments were on the run in New Orleans tonight as police raiding squads struck in all parts of town after being spurred to action by the grand jury and state's attorney.

The raiders hit quickly and violently and the "bookies" were thrown into panic as they had expected only raids of the "wisest-slapping" variety. As the afternoon advanced it became more difficult for a better to place a wager on a pony.

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—(UP)—Daisy Devoe, blonde and 29 pounds heavier than when she was convicted of stealing $825 while acting as secretary to Clara Bow, film star, re-entered the county jail today to resume serving her interrupted term.

She had been at liberty under $5,000 bail during a series of unsuccessful attempts to obtain a new trial.

Miss Devoe must serve the remaining 17 months of her 18-month sentence, imposed as a condition of five years' probation.

Crusading Pastor on Obscene Books Weary of Jail After Three Weeks

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN.
CHICAGO, July 13.—(UP)—The Rev. Phillip Yarrow, whose one-man crusade against indecent books backfired him into jail, is getting tired, very tired, of durance vile.

Behind the yellow painted bars of Chicago's celebrated crackpot jail, he gazed forlornly through thick-lensed eyeglasses today at a buck-toothed guard who stood near by to see that he didn't try to escape, and told the lamentable story of his purchase of the book entitled "Ten Nights in a Harem."

"And I want out," said the Rev. Mr. Yarrow, smoothing his rumpled gray hair. "I've been in jail for three weeks now, and it has been a wonderful spiritual experience; but I'm getting tired of it."

The Rev. Mr. Yarrow is superintendent of the Illinois Vigilance Association, suppression of obscene literature is his principal task. So he visited the bookstore of Walter Shaver several months ago to buy "Ten Nights in a Harem."

Shaver, under the old common law in force in Illinois, had Yarrow trundled off to jail as a debtor, there to stay for six months unless he relents and relinquishes the $5,000 first Shaver, incidentally, is paying $150 a day to the state for Yarrow's board.

"Although I have filed an appeal," said the latter, "I'd let that man Shaver pay my jail board bill for the rest of my life before I'd give him $5,000. That book he sold me is one of the worst I've ever seen."

"Ten Nights in a Harem," explained the Rev. Mr. Yarrow, concerns a naval officer who dived into the Mediterranean sea. He got caught in a

70,000 PROHI CASES REPORTED FOR YEAR

Seizures Total 1,833,000 Gallons Liquor, 5,000,000 of Beer.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The seizure by federal dry agents of more than 1,833,000 gallons of illicit liquor and 5,000,000 gallons of beer during the past fiscal year was announced today by the prohibition bureau.

The figures showed that from July 1, 1930, to June 30, 1931, there were approximately 70,000 dry law cases in which arrests were made. From these cases were imposed 35,650 fines aggregating $5,511,000. In addition, 29,470 violators were sentenced to jail for a total of more than 18,383 years. Incidental in the effort was the seizure of 21,375 distilleries and stills, more than 27,800 beer fermenters and 8,260 automobiles.

The prohibition bureau also made public today the record of federal dry law enforcement during June. Nearly 2,000 stills and distilleries were seized, along with nearly 500,000 gallons of beer and 14,000 gallons of illicit liquor. Jail sentences were imposed on 2,719 violators and 2,934 others were fined.

State Drops Morals Charge
Against Wealthy Showman.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 13.—(AP)—Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire showman, and his three co-defendants in the "girl market" case, were freed of conspiracy and moral charges today by Superior Judge L. N. Turrentine on motion of District Attorney Tom Whelan.

Whelan informed the court when the case was called for retrial that he did not believe a jury would bring in a verdict of guilty as a result of the showing made at the first trial as to the past life of Lydia Nitto, youthful complaining witness.

Pantages was accused of conspiring with Jesse H. Shreve, prominent San Diego businessman, and Olive Clark Day and William Jobelmann to bring Miss Nitto here to a hotel

JUDGE AND ATTORNEY DIFFER ON LEA CHARGE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 13.—(AP)—Criminal Judge Charles Gilbert today extended until next Monday the time given Richard M. Atkinson, district attorney-general, to draw a conspiracy indictment against Colonel Luke Lea and Luke Lea Jr. in connection with affairs of the closed Liberty Bank and Trust Company.

The court's previous order directed the filing of an indictment not later than tomorrow.

After the time had been extended, Atkinson told the court he did not "acknowledge" that the court had a right to direct him to file an indictment. Judge Gilbert allowed his exception to be entered. The attorney-general explained to newspapermen that the only thing involved was a "legal question" and that there was no friction between the judge and himself.

Atkinson, appearing in open court, called attention to the judge's instructing the filing of a bill or indictment and asked the court to turn over to him any information available on which a conspiracy charge might be brought against the publisher and his son.

Judge Gilbert said that the court was "not a prosecutor's office, not an investigator or detective," but that "in fairness" to the attorney-general he would give him a list of names "from whom I believe you can get the information I had in mind."

Girl Who Killed For Revenge Wins Another Trial

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 13.—(AP)—A new trial was ordered by the supreme court today for Helen Spence, who shot and killed Jack Worls while he was on trial at Dewitt for killing her father.

She was sentenced to five years in prison.

The reversal of her conviction was the result of errors in her trial at Dewitt a few months ago. One of these, the supreme court said, was the admission of testimony of expert witnesses as to her sanity. Jurors in Worls' trial were allowed to testify to her sanity, based on brief observation of her on the witness stand.

Another error, the court held, was the admission of testimony contradicting an expert witness, Dr. L. R. Brown, superintendent of the state hospital for nervous diseases, on a collateral matter.

The girl, now 19, shot Worls as the jury prepared to retire to consider the charge of murder against him. Worls was accused of killing the girl's father in a boat on the White river.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Two trusts aggregating $30,634,000, created by the late James B. Duke for his daughter, Doris Duke, today were held exempt from federal estate taxes by the board of tax appeals.

From Going to Louisville.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 13.—(AP)—District Attorney General Richard M. Atkinson today filed a petition for the state asking that Rogers Caldwell not be permitted to leave the jurisdiction of the criminal court here to answer federal indictments in Louisville, Ky., in connection with the failure of the National Bank of Kentucky and the Bank of Kentucky well & Company who recently was convicted of fraudulent breach of Company.

The petition set out that Caldwell, former head of the now defunct Caldwell trust, also is under several similar indictments here growing out of failure of his investment house.

Judge Chester K. Hart, before whom Caldwell was tried, set hearing on the petition for Tuesday.

It asks that an order be issued "assuming and asserting by this court (Davidson county criminal) prior jurisdiction over the custody and person of the defendant until the above cases are finally disposed of."

The federal indictment in Louisville accuses Caldwell of conspiring to misapply certain funds of the closed National Bank of Kentucky.

As Will Rogers Says

Will Rogers, in one of his recent daily editorials, comments on the shrinkage of the estate of the late George F. Baker. Popularly reported to be a billionaire, this great financier actually left only seventy-five millions or so, and Mr. Rogers remarks that even the wisest of us may not succeed in outguessing the market when all signs go wrong.

I am inclined to disagree with Mr. Rogers in one respect. My Company, Pacific Mutual, DID succeed in "beating the market" in 1930, just as it did in 1921, and in the several other periods of depression we have suffered since the panic of 1873. Pacific Mutual averaged within a fraction of a cent the same high return on its investments in 1930 that it averaged in 1929 and in other years—both prosperous years and panicky years.

But it was, of course, not "guessing" that did it. It was seasoned investment skill, a sound knowledge of real values, and the best of good management which enabled Pacific Mutual in 1930 to earn for its policyholders, and to collect, the same high rate of return that had been earned in normal years.

Well-directed cooperative investment programs often succeed where individual investment programs fail. Pacific Mutual's investment program is purely cooperative. The funds invested are the many millions which you and I have accumulated in our life insurance reserves. The Pacific Mutual Investment Department is our financial agent, directly responsible to you and to me, rigidly supervised, and required by law to confine its investments to securities of unquestioned soundness.

An attractive folder, "The Quality of Pacific Mutual Assets," will interest you, from an investment standpoint if no other. If you would like a copy, kindly write your name and address below.

TALKING IT OVER

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I do not have to read the story of Cinderella to know how she felt. I am one of four daughters, and all of them are treated better than I am. My stepmother hates me, and she has caused my father to turn against me. He sometimes tells me he wishes I had never been born. When we go up town, they make me sit in the car as if they were ashamed of me. I have nowhere to go, but I want to get away from home. I am disgusted with it all. Could you advise me what to do? I am nearly 16.
UNHAPPY.

ANSWER:

Stick it out until you are a little older. Sometimes when a person meets injustice with meekness it makes the guilty ones feel ashamed of themselves. Let me tell you one thing, young lady, that I have observed: the judgments of a whole family about one member of the family are pretty nearly correct. One member of it might be down on you if you were all you ought to be, but when the whole family gets down on you the chances are that you are wrong. A stepmother might mistreat you, but your own father would more than likely do you justice. I don't want to be hard on you or unsympathetic, but I want to help you to get in a better position with yourself first and with your family in consequence of that.

If you have no money to go off to school and no home where you may find a refuge, you will have to remain where you are for a few years, but when you are old enough to leave home and enter a hospital to train as a nurse, that might be a good profession for you to enter. Go to see the family doctor and tell him that you want to enter a good hospital. He will know where to send you, and you may find in him the ally you need. Of course one must have some interest in nursing or some desire to develop such an interest before one goes in training to be a nurse. I suggest that profession because it can be managed without much money, and it is a useful, high-grade profession for a woman. It gives her an opportunity to see life, to render service, and to get away from a home that is unhappy. School takes a girl away from home for nine months, but hospital training takes her away for the whole year at practically no expense and when the course is finished she can make a good living in any community.

My morning paper carries a letter from a trained nurse that opened my eyes. Listen to her record of service: "I have raised triplets that were neglected by their parents and would have died if I hadn't been called in. I had them taken from their parents and put in an institution where I paid for their care. They are now 14 years old. I have nursed 167 wives, 143 husbands, 214 children, and I have had to reconstruct almost a third of these homes."

Now I say that is a magnificent record and is big enough to inspire any healthy girl who is unhappy at home and feels that she is unwanted at home. There is a place for anyone in this world who wants to be helpful and happy. If it is not in the home where she is born, then let her get out and find it. But, young lady, before you go try to square yourself at home. It will be much pleasanter to leave that home to go to occasionally, and it will be much better for your peace of mind when you are away, to feel that you made yourself acceptable before you left.

We get what is coming to us in our families. If we are thoughtful and sweet tempered and considerate of others they will be the same to us. If we are censorious and critical and sensitive and always looking out for mistreatment, we are sure to get it.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

and generally smart as they were swift of foot. Little, indeed, did they miss.

"My dear," remarked Speedfoot, one morning, "your neighbor, Mrs. Fleetfoot, has babies."

"What do you mean by that?" snapped Mrs. Speedfoot sharply.

"Have you seen those occasional flashes way off there in the distance?" inquired Speedfoot.

"Of course I have," retorted Mrs. Speedfoot. "There are few days that we don't see those flashes somewhere. They are Antelope signals. I know that as well as you do."

"Oh, then you have used your eyes. I beg your pardon," replied Speedfoot. "It is your wits you haven't used."

"So you say. Now just what do you mean?" Mrs. Speedfoot was beginning to be cross.

"You haven't noticed that those particular flashes have been in the same neighborhood for the last two days, and you haven't used your wits," explained Speedfoot.

"So on," retorted Mrs. Speedfoot. "Tell me more."

"Why there isn't any more to tell."

replied Speedfoot. "Those flashes always near the same place can mean but one thing. There are no answering signals and so there can't be but one Antelope, and no Antelope stays long in one place unless there is a very strong reason. I passed that way a few days ago and saw Mrs. Fleetfoot grazing and she was alone. Not another Antelope was to be seen. So I knew that she is the one who has been flashing those signals. Only this thing would keep her so near to one place for several days, and that is a baby or babies. What do you say, my dear, to doing a little looking around over there?"

"I believe you are right and I confess I haven't used my wits," replied Mrs. Speedfoot admiringly. "By all means let us look around over there. The mere thought of a baby Antelope dinner makes my mouth water. When shall we start?"

"Now is as good a time as any," replied Speedfoot grinning.

So it was that the very secret she was trying to keep Mrs. Fleetfoot unknowingly gave away.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON,

When Defeat Impends Attack

Defensive overbidding is one of the fundamentals of winning Contract. The value of a game is at least 400 points; hence it follows that when the making of a game is prevented at the cost of 400 points in penalties, there has been no loss; when the price of game saving is lower, there has been a gain. This is not written in justification of wild overbidding, of which there is entirely too much at the Contract table, but when it is certain that opponents have a game at their preferred make, then the cost of preventing such game should be considered and if the price does not exceed 3 tricks, not vulnerable, it is a point-saving course to take the loss above the line rather than in the invisible, but no less actual, score which accompanies the making of a game by the opponents.

After a game has been won, overbidding must be very carefully calculated. Except to save a slam, an overbid of more than 1 trick is rarely justified as, through unusual distribution, the expected set of 1 trick may possibly increase to 2 and an anticipated loss of 2 tricks might quite easily be 3 or 4, due to the dangers of navigation on the seas of distribution, which are strewn with many perils.

The hand below is a beautiful example of successful defensive overbidding. It was played in the recent match between an American team, the members of which were Mrs. Culbertson and myself, Mr. Waldemar von Zeltwitz and Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, and a British team, representing Crookford's Club, on which played Colonel H. M. Beasley, Sir Guy Domville, Captain Kenneth Hogg and Mr. George Morris.

1—West here wisely takes advantage of the fact that his side is not vulnerable and his opponents are, to shade the requirements for an Opening bid slightly. His hand does not contain 2-2 honor-tricks but in Contract, as in war, attack is the best defense and when one side is vulnerable and the other not, waiting tactics are usually losing tactics.

2—Contract set 2 tricks. This is a very fine result, not vulnerable, as the opponents can make six diamonds if they make a correct guess in trumps. South can hardly be blamed, however, for not bidding four diamonds, vulnerable, on what to him must look like an almost hopeless holding. West, who is rather conservative on Opening bids, this time made a successful "psychic" Opening bid.

The bidding at Table No. 2:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1♠ 2♦
2♠	2NT	Pass	3♦
3♥ (2) 1♠	Pass	Pass	4♦
Pass	5♦ (1) 2♦	Pass	Pass

1—It is my opinion that had West passed the bid of three diamonds, the contract would not have been carried any further by the opponents. His second Raise gave South the opportunity to rebid.

2—A very bold and brilliant bid which received its due reward.

Today's Pointer.
All Opening suit bids of one show about 4 playing-tricks (2-1 honor-tricks and at least 1 long-suit-trick). Therefore:

If partner raises bid suit: Each additional playing-trick (whether an honor or long-suit-trick) held in excess of 4 justifies another bid.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 13.—(AP) Police armed with riot guns guarded the properties of the Royal Weaving Company today after hearing of a plan by textile strikers to demonstrate there. They blocked an attempt of several hundred men and women to hold a mass meeting on a vacant lot near the mill and forced them to march about a half mile from the property.

Prodding night sticks kept streets near the mill cleared all day. Every effort to gather or to loiter was broken without serious consequences, although ten men and women were arrested charged mostly with minor infractions of the law involving failure to obey the order of a police officer.

The adjacent city of Central Falls, where crowds last week charged police guarding the General Fabrics Corporation properties, was quiet today. Workers of the weaving company and the fabrics corporation are on strike. Placards were found today posted in public squares calling upon strikers in mills in Central Falls, Pawtucket and Olneyville to gather for a huge picket line before the weaving company plant.

The Polish-American Citizens' Club of Central Falls, which advanced mediation plans, awaited the reply of the strikers' committee to its suggestion that the strikers permit the club to organize a citizens' committee to bring the opposing factions together.

Ann Burlac, energetic girl organizer of the National Textile Union, a communist organization, was brought to state police headquarters and given a description of the situation from the viewpoint of the state police.

Memphis Sailor Ready For Trip Over Pacific

YOKOHAMA, July 13.—(AP)—Edward Miles, of Memphis, Tenn., who is circumnavigating the world single-handed in a five-ton yacht with an auxiliary motor, will leave here tomorrow for Honolulu.

He expects to reach Hawaii in 50 or 60 days and hopes to be the first lone sailor to cross the Pacific from west to east. The westward crossing has been made by lone sailors on three occasions.

U. S. OFFICERS STONED BY ANGRY FILIPINOS

MANILA, July 13.—(AP)—A group of American army officers and their wives was stoned by an angry crowd of Filipinos here yesterday while on an independence demonstration before two United States senators.

Several Americans were hit. Captain Fred Adams of the Thirty-first infantry, and Robert Davis, son of an army officer, were injured, but not seriously.

The incident occurred at the open air swimming pool of the Army and Navy Club when the crowd of Filipinos, evidently curious, overran the grounds. Ordered off the grounds, the islanders became incensed and started throwing stones.

The police were called, but only one officer was available, the others being busy handling the independence crowd several blocks distant. About 20 members of the club formed a phalanx and cleared the grounds, using their fists in a few instances.

The independence demonstration, staged for Senator Harry B. Hawes, of Missouri, and Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, advocates of Philippine freedom, drew a throng estimated at between 100,000 and 200,000 persons. Another 50,000 participated in a parade described as a gesture of defiance to the United States.

The people of the islands were united in their desire for political freedom.

WEIZMANN OVERRIDDEN BY ZIONIST CONGRESS

BASEL, Switzerland, July 13.—(AP) The fight between the supporters of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist organization, and his opponents reached a climax Sunday in the Zionist congress when the congress adopted by a vote of 123 to 103 a resolution submitted by the political commission which in effect amounts to a vote of no confidence in Dr. Weizmann.

The resolution declares that "the congress expresses regret at the views expressed by Dr. Weizmann in his interview with the Jewish Telegraphic Agency and regards his reply to the interpellation on this interview as inadequate."

In his interview, on July 3, Dr. Weizmann said he had no sympathy with the demand for a Jewish majority in Palestine because the world would construct this demand only to

INSTALLMENT III.

"Col. Rutherford is very self-willed. I might almost say he is incapable of accepting advice that is contrary to his own wishes. Several times, for instance, I advised him against mortgaging Oakleigh so heavily. At least, one of his legal friends, learning something of his affairs—Sinclear—agreed with me. But Col. Rutherford was bent upon having his own way."

"So the old place is mortgaged? Too bad! Do you hold the mortgage, dad?"

"If I didn't, somebody else would," said Henry matter of factly. "I met his wishes, with Oakleigh as security, though I advised him against such a course. He wouldn't listen. Of course he lost. He has had to borrow repeatedly. As things are now, the place is carrying all he can stagger under."

"I certainly hope you lose the bet, dad," said Sam. "I'd hate to see that girl come a cropper, though I didn't have a pleasant experience with Miss Sally myself," and as Henry looked up surprisedly Sam said musingly:

"You remember old Mandy's mulatto boy Jake—how he and I used to hunt and fish and trap together? Well, Jake and I used to run rabbits down and bowl 'em over with a stick—we thought it great sport. We were running down a big fellow one day, and we were so excited that when he got over on Oakleigh bounds we went right over the fence after him."

"Sally Rutherford happened to be riding by and saw the whole thing. She was thinking more of the rabbit than of us, I reckon, for she stopped her horse and asked us haughtily what we meant by poaching. I knew who she was, but I didn't think she knew who I was and that we were neighbors. So I apologized for having crossed her boundaries and told her my name. She sat up there on her horse and looked down at me, and she said in a voice like we have, 'I don't know the Winsteds, but whoever you may be, I do know you're trespassing on our land, so you get right off and you stay off. I won't have you poaching on Oakleigh!'"

"I got hot in the collar then, and told her she gave me a pain and that she was rude and silly and to climb down. She was a beautiful child, I thought, but proud as the devil and altogether too high and mighty."

"Maybe you can hunt all you want on Rutherford land some of these days and Sally Rutherford won't be in a position to order you off," said Henry tentatively.

"My gosh, dad, I hope not! I don't want Oakleigh and that girl does. They've had their place longer than we've had ours, and I know how I feel about ours. The girl is still at school, isn't she?"

"Yes, she's been going to Europe with a crowd of girls these last two or three summers, so she hasn't been home any more than you have. The colonel is mighty good to her; gives her everything."

"The Winsteds do as much for me, dad," said Sam with a quick smile. "I'm sorry to hear that the colonel is in difficulties, but he oughtn't to swim out of his depths. Why will people be so stupid? This isn't pleasant news."

"There were certain real estate men after him that I didn't want him to get in with," said Henry. "They'd skin him alive. I thought I'd better safeguard Oakleigh myself. After all, I'm his neighbor."

"Do you think the Rutherford will appreciate that touch of pure feeling on your part?" asked Sam. "I wonder if I would myself, if I were in their shoes? However, what must be, will be. I don't want Oakleigh. So let's talk about what I want to do. I want a dairy farm."

All in flower garden while, her bobbed head sleek and boyish, her brown eyes black with happy excitement, her arms full of gorgeous flowers, Sally Rutherford was declaiming the vocabulary for her class, and doing it so well that she won everybody's admiration for the prettiest and most popular girl in the school; she had been chosen valedictorian; she stood high in her classes, and was genuinely liked by all her teachers; her dress was enchanting; her new slippers didn't pinch. Grandmamma had sent the little string of pearls that had been her own graduation gift. Grandpapa had had the flowers sent from a famous florist; and in addition to all this she could look forward to a glamorous summer home at Oakleigh, the first after several years of absence. The prospect made Sally sigh happily. Home . . . Grandpapa . . . Oakleigh!

The one drop of gall in Sally's cup of nectar tonight was that grandpapa wasn't present. At the last moment he had wired that he was unable to come. Important business. His sweet Sally must forgive her old grandfather.

She was bitterly disappointed. But his flowers had arrived, she was being graduated amid applause, she expected to be home in a few days, so she dimpled and was lovely, and young, and gay, as a girl should be.

And in the meantime the Misses Dohbs were saying excitedly, the one to the other:

"(1) Amelia, let's not tell her yet! Look how happy she is, poor child. O, think of such a dreadful thing coming upon . . . Rutherford—tonight, of all nights!"

"Matilda, I dread having to break the news to her. Yes, let's wait until the last minute. I fear I shall never get over this shock! It has completely unnerved me." She put her handkerchief to her eyes.

The two troubled ladies thought that that gala occasion would never end. The festive affair, of which they were usually so proud, was spoiled for them this year. Sally Rutherford had been peculiarly dear to the Misses Dohbs, satisfying their every instinct. It had pleased them to name her among their pupils. Colonel Rutherford's granddaughter, you know. They had always looked up to the colonel—and now this to befall him!

The festivities were over at last. Sally was in her room, taking off her beautiful white frock, when Miss Amelia Dohbs, the sterner of the two sisters, knocked at the door and was hidden entry. She held a yellow envelope in her hand. Her face was unusually pale, and she looked at the girl commiseratingly. Sally was arrested by the expression of her face. "Why, what on earth is the matter, Miss Amelia?"

"Sally, your grandfather—your dear grandfather!"

"Is grandpa ill?" cried Sally, instantly alarmed.

"Worse than that, child. Colonel Rutherford died. Two tears rolled down Miss Amelia's cheeks. Within the memory of the school Miss Amelia had never been known to shed tears freely over any emotion. The sight of Miss Amelia crying terrified Sally.

"Is grandpa dead?" she asked, in a voice quite unlike her own.

Miss Amelia nodded. "She couldn't find words. Colonel Rutherford had been the ideal gentleman to the Misses Dohbs."

Wordlessly, she stared at Miss Amelia Dohbs.

"The telegram is signed 'Sinclear,'" said Miss Amelia. Sally nodded. That would be Herbert Sinclear, grandpapa's best friend, who was quite often a guest at Oakleigh. A lawyer like grandpapa himself, he had, she believed, very often attempted to certain details of his friend's private affairs. At any rate, the two had been close friends since their boyhood.

Homers Fly as Athletics Divide With Senators To Hold Lead; Atlanta Opens 'Opportunity' Series With Mobile Here Tonight

ATHLETICS SPLIT PAIR WITH NATS TO HOLD MARGIN

Home Run by Pinch Hitter Wins for Mackmen.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—(AP) The Philadelphia Athletics maintained their lead of six games in the race for the third straight American league pennant today as they split a doubleheader with the Washington Senators. A seven-run rally in the eighth inning gave Philadelphia the first game, 12-7. The Senators won the second, 6 to 4.

With home runs ringing off their bats almost as frequently as singles, the champions drove in all except two of their dozen runs in the winner with clutch drives. Cochran, Bishop and Fox kept "Lefty" Grove and the champions in the running in the early innings with their four-base hits and Williams and Simmons delivered in the eighth to completely rout the Senators. Williams, batting for Grove, hit his homer with the bases loaded, while Simmons connected with Cochran on base.

Although Earnshaw finished the game, Grove received credit for the victory—his eighteenth of the year as against two defeats. It also was his fourth triumph over the Senators in five starts. Alvin Crowder and Rube Walberg matched pitching giants. With the score tied at 2-2, Harris and Kuhl came through in the sixth with homers, scoring four runs, and putting the Senators into what proved to be a safe lead.

A crowd of 40,000—the largest to see the Mackmen in their own park this season—jammed the stands for the bargain bill. As many more were turned away.

The Senators apparently had the first game sewed up until the eighth with Marberry outpitching Grove in virtually every inning. Manager Walter Johnson, however, was forced to use a pinchhitter for "Fido." Bump Hadley went to the mound and before he could be waved to the showers, he had tripled, scored three men and walked. Fox had scored on a wild pitch and the bases were loaded with none out. Burke was called to the rescue but Williams greeted him with a home run. The Athletics then doubled and Simmons bounced a homer into the bleachers.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 13.—(AP)—Lou Terry, of Memphis, lightweight, fought eight exciting rounds here tonight, judges voting the match a draw.

Hey, Fans! Here's the Cup! Come Out Tonight And See What You Won

By Ralph McGill.

IT WILL be possible, baseball fans, to go out to the game tonight and see that cup which you won for Atlanta. Remember that day, April 16, when you got there late and had to spread a newspaper to sit on. And how, no matter how you crossed your legs, the muscles cramped?

Well, tonight there will be seats. And John D. Martin, in the flesh, will present the cup to R. J. Spiller or to some other official of the Cracker club.

It's the cup you fought and bled for, the cup that the school children of New Orleans almost took away from you. And tonight is your chance to take a look at the fruits of victory and slap your hands vigorously for the president of the league, that well-known short story writer, John D. Martin.

The Crackers will meet the Mobile Marines in an effort to make it two straight. It is to be hoped that the Crackers fans will begin to rally around the club. There really has been no reason to cup the hands and give what is known as the Bronx cheer.

The Crackers are going along four games ahead of a .500 percentage. And are not yet out of the race. This happens to be one of those crucial weeks in which the Crackers to use the Marines as a springboard from which to leap into the first division.

At any rate, the series is on tonight. Five games will be played here, four of them at night.

Atlanta baseball officials are going in for no undue pyrotechnics concerning "cup night." Over at Chattanooga Cousin Joe Engel is putting on a yoked holiday giving away automobiles and the like. Of course, Cousin Joe got the automobile in an advertisement lie-up and is making a nice profit at the game.

Cracker officials tearfully ask if they wish Atlantics to be subjected to an evening when one of those bands play.

ALL IN THE BOOK. Atlanta is used to cups and presentations. The fans have right in your face if you mention that the city has gone and beaten all other cities in the game in the matter of attendance.

They are likely to ask, "What's the deal? Atlanta is going to go out and win the things just to keep little smart-alec cities like Birmingham and Chattanooga in line?"

But to make a display of victory, a vulgar display? Not Atlanta. Dear me, no. Not even to get a free chance on a car.

OUT IN FRONT. Atlanta happens to be outdrawing the other cities in the league by a wide margin. Chattanooga, given a home run, is the first place club for the first time since U. S. Grant's army was camped there, in second place with a goodly crowd.

But Atlanta, with no ballyhoo campaigns except the pieces written by the boys, is leading the league. What a baseball city this is.

"I'd like to give this city a pen name," he said. "The name of the city is Atlanta. And they keep coming. The fans are peculiar. They sit on their hands. For a time I thought they were cold."

LEADER-LEADER. "But they're not loyal. I guess they just don't like to follow a cheerleader out there at third base. Some I hope will get up in the race. And when the crowds are big I want Atlanta fans to get with me and root. The club would go better if they would."

Maybe that's what the club needs instead of a pitcher—more hand-slapping.

At any rate it's worth a trial. And at any rate it's a bad time to start. This Mobile series can make or just about break the club. A dash up to the top of the league, and then a word now is likely. The Crackers can't afford to let their assets get going.

At any rate, you owe it to yourself to come out and see the game. And bring the girl friend. She gets in free.

Canzoneri Retains His Belt on Coast

Berlin Greets Max With Wild Acclaim

BERLIN, July 13.—(AP)—Nothing was left undone in the way of speeches and ceremony today to assure Max Schmeling that he was really welcome home as Germany's hero. The heavyweight champion landed at Tempelhof airfield from Bremen. A crowd of 8,000, unusual for such an occasion, turned out to greet the conqueror of Bill Stribling.

Handkerchiefs waved wildly as the plane was sighted and the crowd greeted Schmeling with a volley of "Heils" as the champion jumped out of the plane and ran into the arms of his mother who was waiting to greet him. Leading sports officials made speeches, paying tribute to the prize fighter as "a credit to the fatherland," "master of all categories," "shining example of German sportsmanship."

By the time Schmeling got around to speaking through the microphone, more floral tributes had been handed him than he could hold, among them a laurel wreath.

"I'm glad to be back home," he said, "and I'm glad I had a chance to prove myself a genuine champion. I'm home to visit mother and I'm going to take a good rest."

The strains of "Deutschland über Alles" brought an unusually profound hush over the ceremonies as though the critical financial happenings of the day managed to crowd out the jubilation over the winner of at least one undisputed German success.

LEAVITT EASY FOR STEINBORN IN MAT BOUT

By Ralph McGill.

Mountain Entirely Helpless; Hesslyn, Lehman in Great Match.

Charley Lehman, Texas, and Jim Hesslyn, Australia, saved the wrestling card Monday night with one of the greatest and most thrilling matches ever seen in Atlanta.

In the main event, Milo Steinborn did the game and the fans a favor by removing "Stone Mountain" Leavitt from the scene. Leavitt was helpless in the ring, proving to the fans what the boxing commission and Matchmaker Henry Weber knew all along, that he could not beat a good man.

Steinborn, who is not in the championship class, but a good tough man, had the huge Leavitt out in five minutes. They came back and Steinborn played with him for five minutes.

Twice he actually picked the 310 pounds of blubber up and tossed it across the ring. At other times Steinborn made Leavitt appear ridiculous by tripping him up and dodging his ludicrous efforts to get a hold.

Leavitt, who seems to be a good enough fellow personally, should know by now that wrestling is not his game and make an announcement of retirement. His appearance in the ring does the game no good.

The Atlanta commission and the matchmaker had refused several matches, but because Leavitt was an Atlanta and because he and some fans were persistent, the match was made. The fans at a recent match, voted that the big fellow be given the Monday night chance.

The fans did get a thrill seeing the 216-pound Steinborn lift the 310-pound giant in the air and toss him about. Twice Leavitt tried pounding Steinborn in the neck only to give up their ineffectual blows.

Leavitt had Steinborn on the mat but could not turn him. Steinborn proved to be even stronger than fans thought. Lehman and Hesslyn, the latter a newcomer, went a full hour at a furious pace, showing enough wrestling to more than make up for the deficiency on Leavitt's part.

Another card, to be made up entirely of real wrestlers, was announced for next Tuesday.

Twenty Grand Ready For Arlington Classic

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP)—Twenty Grand, regarded by easterners as the "horse of the century," is ready for the $70,000 added Arlington classic to be decided at Arlington park next Saturday.

The big son of St. Germans-Bonus, with his stablemate, St. Brudeaux, took his first lengthy gallop today since his injury in winning the Dwyer stakes, and reeled off the classic route in 2:11.

The track was slow after a drearying overnight rain and the time, naturally, also was slow. At the end of the distance Twenty Grand was trailing St. Brudeaux by almost a length. The Kentucky Derby winner carried about 135 pounds and Jockey S. Hebert, astride him, never at any time gave him his head. He had the Greenree stable and it looked like he could have run away from his companion if given the opportunity.

And Mr. Grove Wins Another Ball Game

Bob (Lefty) Grove, pitching star of the world champion Philadelphia Athletics, who is sketched by Jack Sords (above), got credit for his 18th victory of the season Monday afternoon as the Athletics beat the Washington Senators in the first game of a doubleheader.

He now has the remarkable record of 18 victories and two losses, with the season just a little more than half over! Grove's record for the past few years establishes him as one of the greatest pitchers of all time.

NET STAR UPSET AT BROOKLINE

Toronto Player Beaten by Youngster in Opening Round.

By Bill King. BROOKLINE, Mass., July 13.—(AP)—Harry Moore, 19, of White Plains, N. Y., provided the only upset in today's opening rounds in the Davis cup tennis tournament, a fixture that this year attracted most of the high ranking stars not occupied with Davis cup or Wimbledon matters.

The University of Arizona freshman upset Arthur W. Ham, of Toronto, a seeded player, in a second round match of 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, in a second round match.

Ham was seeded second and last on the foreign list, below Jack Kropf, Czechoslovakia, a brother of Karel, the professional.

Jan, who is attached to the Czech legation in Washington, himself narrowly escaped elimination in the second round. Jack Hess Jr., hard-hitting Texan, battled the Czech through 40 games, Kozul finally winning, 7-5, 13-11.

The six players on the American seeding list, topped by Champion Johnny Doe, were not hard pressed, although Doe's game was far from his peak, he gained the third bracket by defeating T. M. Banks, Williams College player, 6-2, 6-3, and then subduing Walter Wood, Boston, 6-4, 6-3.

Two others in the tourney also have legs on the bowl. Wilmer Allison, the second seeded Texan, and Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans. Allison won in 1929 and Sutter, seeded third, is the tourney's defending champion.

Allison started his play against W. C. Thompson, Rochester, and after a long, hard-fought battle, won, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2. Sutter's only victim was Draper Hill, of Boston, as he benefited by the default of Tom Jensen, Worcester.

Sharkey Leaves Boxing Off Menu

Wolgast Is Beaten In New York Ring

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—Midwest Wolgast, recognized in New York state as the world's drawweight champion, easily defeated Ruby Bradley, negro, of Holyoke, Mass., in a 15-round title bout at Coney Island stadium last night. Wolgast weighed 111 1-2, Bradley 110 1-2.

The negro could not cope with the speed, skill and lightning left-hand punching of the champion. In the first round Bradley went down for a count of nine. The champion eased up for a round or two but he staggered Bradley with left hooks to the head in the eighth, eleventh and thirteenth rounds to win the unanimous decision of Referee Danny Ridge and two judges.

A crowd of about 2,000 saw the first title bout staged in the historic old stadium since Jim Jeffries and Jim Corbett waged their heavyweight title struggle here 30 years ago.

Bradley, who previously fought a draw with Wolgast, Sunday, won a 10-round decision from Cecil Payne, Louisville, Ky., thereby successfully defending his junior welterweight crown. Payne weighed 136 pounds, Canzoneri 132 1-2.

At the end of the race, the time, naturally, also was slow. At the end of the distance Twenty Grand was trailing St. Brudeaux by almost a length. ## CRACKERS, PEBBS FAVORED TEAMS IN WEEK'S PLAY

Marine Series Offers Dobbers Chance; Travelers Pick on Vols.

Atlanta and Little Rock seem to have the best opportunities this week as the first division teams gather themselves for the week's play and the real start down the home stretch.

The Crackers open tonight against the Mobile Marines, a team which should supply some profit for the home coffers.

The Marines are not at all in the class of the Atlanta ball club if the Atlanta ball club will extend itself and play the baseball it is capable of playing.

ONE OF THE BEST. The Crackers, despite their comparatively lowly standing, are one of the best ball clubs in the circuit, but one which can't get all its forces going consistently.

The chance to finish in the money, and the one, two and three clubs share in the purse at the end of the year, has aided the Crackers in their determination to start down the stretch at a faster clip. Third place money often amounts to more than $100 per player, which is transportation money.

A winning margin in the Mobile series would send the Crackers into the Little Rock series the next week with something to work on. The Travelers are tough to handle. And they are one of the largest barriers the Crackers are to hurdle if they are to bound forward in the race.

THE BIG HOPE. There is hope in the Crackers' breasts that New Orleans will kick the Barons off stride and send them into what would be their first slump of the year. The Pelicans, while they have been going nowhere in a very great hurry, seem to have rallied. They took one of the Barons Sunday.

The Memphis series at Chattanooga, which has three more games to run, is likely to be one of those throat-cutting affairs which leave the standing of both clubs.

Little Rock has a chance which is even better than that offered the Crackers. The Travelers are picking on the lowly and hopeless Vols. The edge in that series is sure to be a wide one despite their loss last night.

RIGHT SQUARE. This, of course, is squarely up to the Crackers. They finish with Mobile on Saturday. Sunday finds them in Nashville for one game. On Monday the Barons Sunday.

Little Rock for a series of three games. Which will be one of those series one reads about, or should be.

Joe Borotra, who firmly believes that he will rally his pitching and get his club working as a unit. Andy Chambers, who pitched during the No. 9 game of the 1929 season, is expected to get a trial during the present week. Another pitcher is being sought who, if obtained, will help out matters.

The latest news at Spiller's concerns the arrival of Tommy Rich, youngster from Thomaston, who will be given a trial at short.

And when the time comes when the attendance cap will be presented, and it is also ladies' night.

Mid-Atlantic Play Starts at Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 13.—(AP) A series of first-round matches between unseeded players today opened the Mid-Atlantic tennis tourney at the fifth annual Mid-Atlantic tennis championships.

All the seeded players drew byes for the first round and some of the seeds were scheduled to get into action tomorrow.

Forty-two nomen, drawn from all parts of the south, entered the tourney. Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., defending champion, topped the list of seeded entrants.

Hines, his double first round in the tourney, was delayed by rain until tomorrow, was expected to arrive late tomorrow night or early Wednesday to begin play in the first round.

As the senior matches enter the second round tomorrow, play will begin in the junior division. Tournament officials announced a large group of speedy youngsters had entered for their own competition.

It was said that Lefty Bryant, Charlotte, 22, who today entered the tourney, probably would be seeded No. 6 in place of Willard Siler, Charlotte, S. C., who would not be able to play in the next.

The seeded list as tentatively revised follows:

Hines, No. 1; Lenoir Wright, Charlotte, 22; Melvin Tarnley, Tampa, Fla., 3; Bob Croeland, Charlotte, 4; Jack Beckman, Charlotte, 8; C. 5; Bryant, 6; Luke Abels, High Point, 7; Arthur Henrich, Rockland, 8; S. Alton Bassett, Charlotte, defeated Ross Chesire, Atlanta, 6-0, 6-0 in one of the first-round matches.

Jonesboro Defeats Peachtree Nine, 8-1

Jonesboro defeated Peachtree Christian, 8 to 1, in a game at Almond Park Sunday.

Landers, who pitched during the No. 9 game of the 1929 season, is expected to get a trial during the present week. Another pitcher is being sought who, if obtained, will help out matters.

The victory was the third in as many days for the Jonesboro team, which defeated McDonough Friday and Fairburn Saturday.

FIGHTERS DRAW. NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—Giampaolo Bergamas, 6 feet 4-inch Italian heavyweight, fought six rounds to a draw with Con O'Kelly, of Boston, in the feature bout of Madison Square Garden's "new talent" show tonight. Bergamas weighed 222; O'Kelly 196.

GIANT BEATEN. NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—Edgie Benson, Brooklyn, outpointed the Irish giant, Pat Redmond, in a slow eight-round bout at Dexter Park tonight. Benson gave away more than 55 pounds, scaling 189 to 215 1-2 for Redmond. There were no knockdowns.

Birmingham Finals Again Rained Out

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 13.—(AP)—After a futile all-day wait for the sun to break through and dry off the Shades Valley courts, the men's and mixed doubles, final events of the southern tennis tournament, were postponed a second time today.

The matches were rained out yesterday after the men's doubles started between Donald and Kendall Cram, Nashville, and Judge L. Beaver, Gainesville, Ga., and William Hines, Columbia, S. C. In the mixed doubles championship Miss Eliza Coxe, Asheville, N. C., and Charles Hume, Orleans, play Miss Beatrice Bryan, Enterprise, Miss., and Melvin Tarpel, Tampa, Fla.

The matches were rescheduled for 10 a. m. tomorrow, court conditions permitting.

SANDLOT MEET BEGINS JULY 28 AT GAINESVILLE

North Georgia City Declares Holiday for Visiting Teams.

Gainesville has been named as the place for the 1931 Georgia state American Legion sandlot tournament, and July 28-30 has been definitely set as the date, Major Trammell Scott, state director, announced Monday.

The 14 teams which will compete in the tournament will begin play on Tuesday, July 28. On the third day, Thursday, July 30, Gainesville will hold a holiday in honor of the American Legion sandlot meet. Stores will be closed.

Teams which will battle for the right to represent Georgia in the regional tournament in August, are the DeKalb Barons, last year's state champions; Rome, Macon, Brunswick, Gainesville, LaGrange, Athens, Albany, Cedartown, Americus, Moultrie, Marietta, Griffin and Atlanta.

The bidding for the location of the tournament had been narrowed down to Gainesville and LaGrange last week, and Gainesville was selected because it offered more in the way of accommodations for the visiting boys and available diamonds for play.

The dominion of Riverside Military Academy will be used to house visiting players. Four diamonds will be available at all times, so that four games can be played simultaneously.

All the boys in the competition are required not to have reached their 17th birthday before June 30.

The DeKalb Barons, of Decatur, who won the state championship last year, will enter the Gainesville event with another strong team. The Atlanta representative has not been selected, the Atlanta eliminations being still in progress.

Atlanta Sandlotters Play Round Today.

Eight teams, remaining in the competition to decide the Atlanta American Legion sandlot champions, will play another round this morning at 10 o'clock on the Piedmont park diamonds.

Today's schedule follows:

SECOND ROUND.
 East Point Robins vs. South Side Robins, at N. W. Piedmont.
 Rinky-Dinky vs. North Side Terrors, at N. W. Piedmont.
 Jumboho Confederates vs. Grant Park Indians, at N. E. Piedmont.
FIRST ROUND.
 Blue Devils vs. Fulton Blues, at S. W. Piedmont.

Big George Earnshaw Likes Plenty of Pitching

Athletic Star Hits, Too; Says He Would Hate to Pitch to Himself.

By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—When big George Earnshaw trudges out to the mound to fire baseballs past the hitters, sometimes as often as every other day, the faithful must wonder why Connie Mack doesn't quit picking on that burly, willing fellow.

But strangely enough, most of the times that Earnshaw and Bob Grove, the long left-hander, march out to the rescue of some other struggling Philadelphia pitcher, Connie Mack has nothing to do with it. He sort of looks down the bench appealingly when there's a relief job to be done. Sometimes it is Grove but oftener it is Earnshaw who speaks up:

"Where's that ball? Give me the ball, I'll go out there."

Earnshaw is a six-foot 3-inch 200-pound husky of ancient Quaker stock, listed in the social register, a Swarthmore College graduate, well-to-do in his own right. He loves to pitch the way Babe Ruth likes to hit and he had his way he'd be starting games for the Athletics every other day.

"I'm better the oftener I work," says big George. "Every other day too much I lose my control and I find that I'm no stronger after three days' rest than I am after two."

MADE OF IRON.

With 15 victories to his credit and only four defeats marked against him, Earnshaw turned in the "iron man" highlight of the first half of the major league season last week when he pitched a full game Sunday, July 5, and lost through errors to the Senators, pitched nine more and trounced Washington Tuesday, and then came back Friday in a relief role to halt the Yankees for eight innings and finally win in the fourteenth.

He gets between $18,000 and $20,000 a year.

Once after Earnshaw got four hits, Al Simmons, the slugger, approached big George with doffed cap and all the deference that befitted a novice waiting upon a great man.

"What is your weakness, Mr. Earnshaw?"

HAS NO WEAKNESS.

"Honest," the pitcher replied. "I don't know. If I had to pitch to myself right now I'd be puzzled."

Earnshaw played football at Swarthmore, besides pitching, but the system he uses with Connie Mack failed miserably on the gridiron. The ace fullback of a big rival was tearing the Swarthmore line to pieces while big George writhed on the bench.

"Let me go in, coach," he pleaded. "I'll stop that guy."

The coach sent him in. And one play later they carried him out, feet first, and he has stuck to baseball ever since.

CONSTITUTION PLAYS GEORGIAN SUNDAY

Baseball teams of The Constitution will clash in their big annual game next Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at Almond park.

BOUTS PROMISE PROFIT DESPITE BLEAK OUTLOOK

Primo's Color, Old "Big-Little" Argument, To Fatten Gates.

By Dixon Stewart, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(UP)—With Primo Carnera definitely selected as Max Schmeling's next opponent and Jack Sharkey billed to meet Mickey Walker for the New York athletic commission's "world heavyweight championship," the current outdoor season promises to provide the two poorest battles ever billed as heavyweight title contests.

Strangely enough, however, both of the bouts promise to draw larger gates than any heavyweight contest since Gene Tunney's final title defense against Tom Heeney at Yankee stadium in June, 1928.

The Schmeling-Carnera bout became a certainty when managers of the two fighters met with William Sacks, president of Madison Square Garden, of Illinois, and posted forfeits for the contest.

ONLY RUMORS.

Sacks refused to name a date or site for the contest, but intimates it would be held during September in either Jersey City or Chicago. The bout cannot be held in New York, as Schmeling is under suspension here and is not recognized by the New York commission.

Boxing men generally agree that Carnera is no better than a third-rate fighter and has no chance of victory against Schmeling, but that the Schmeling-Carnera bout is the best available drawing card and will provide Madison Square Garden an opportunity to recoup the heavy financial loss sustained in the Schmeling-Stribling bout.

Carnera certainly is one of the most colorful ringmen of all time and even the fans who realize that his only claim to boxing prominence is his size will turn out to see him perform.

Primo's countrymen patriotically overlook his poor record and regard him as the greatest fighter in the world. Many an Italian will forego eating to see his champion fight.

If the bout is staged in the vicinity of New York it is certain to be witnessed by more Italians than any fight in history.

NOT A THING.

Primo has done nothing in the ring to entitle him to a chance at the title, and his even break in two bouts with third-rate Jimmy Malone, considered by many as probably the only honest Carnera has fought, indicates he should be a "soft touch" for Schmeling.

Although Carnera will have almost 80 pounds advantage in weight he has little boxing skill, is easy to hit and is not a heavy hitter. Schmeling on the boxing skill, strength and punching ability shown against Stribling, should have little trouble in laying away the big Italian.

The Walker-Sharkey "championship" will be staged under the auspices of the New York milk fund at Ebbett's field, Brooklyn, July 22. Because of the charity angle and the age-old argument as to whether a good little man can beat a good big man, it is certain to be extensively ballyhooed and will draw well.

OH, WELL.

Sharkey, despite his worse than mediocre record against Phil Scott, Schmeling, Kayo Chalmers and Johnny Risko, maintains a reputation as the ranking heavyweight and is the New York commission's nominee for the championship. He may be, as he claims, "the uncrowned champion," but he cannot prove it against Walker.

Walker, unquestionably the best 160-pounder in the sport, has been shoved into the heavyweight picture solely through the craftiness of his manager, Jack Kearns. Mickey's only heavyweight bouts have been two easy victories over washed-out Johnny Risko, an exceedingly suspicious knock-out of Kayo Chalmers and a victory over the unknown Bearcat Wright.

He previously was defeated by Tommy Loughran when he attempted to jump into the light-heavyweight class and has avoided trying conclusions with Maxie Rosenbloom, current 175-pound ruler.

Two Veterans.

You may or may not recall the ancient Persian king who engraved upon his signet ring, "Even This Shall Pass Away." The odds are that he was not referring to a pair of old-timers by the name of Bill Tilden and Walter Hagen. These two seem to be just starting to warm up.

Hagen won his second United States open golf title in 1919. He had won his first in 1914. In 1919 Tilden was on his way to tennis fame through Australia, then Wimbledon and then Forest Hills. That was some time back, when you consider how keen the competition has been ever since. Yet here is Tilden holding the professional tennis championship of the world, and there is Hagen tied up for the Canadian open after one of the best four-round matches of the year. Without any question, these two must take their places among the most remarkable and the most colorful competitors in sport. Both have won every title that could be won and yet both today, nearing the 40-year mark, are still at or around the top.

Tilden's Span.

Bill Tilden looks as good as he ever looked, and maybe a trifle better. It is a serious question whether even Henry Cochet could stop the rush of the tall and lanky one as Big Bill is playing today.

Vinnie Richards and Kozeluh are high-ranking tennis players, but they have been unable to even bother the hard-hitting Tilden, who is now looking around for more champions to conquer, with one eye peeled on Cochet in case the Frenchman regains his health and decides to take up the professional side.

With Cochet at his peak, there would be more than a few willing to back Tilden in a five-set match, especially on turf courts. There may be something along this line after the next Davis cup matches are completed, and more is known about Cochet's health and decides to take up the professional side.

Hagen Again.

After a ragged year, Walter Hagen was supposed to be over the hill. Then he came back in the western open with a score of 284 for 72 holes, 4 under 48, to finish second.

A week later his play in the Ryder cup matches was brilliant, his 69 at Skokie against Charlie Whitcombe was the best of the week. A week after this he was still in the running for the United States open with nine or ten holes left to play, one of the few surviving contenders.

Over the last week-end he tied for first place in the Canadian open, leading such stars as Tommy Armour, Mac Smith, Johnny Farrell and a flock of others. His score here was 282, the leading figure until Percy Alliss got his birdie 3 on the last green to get into the playoff. In the western and in the Canadian open Hagen played 144 holes and finished 10 under even 48. He never set a faster pace back in the old days when he was wearing a United States or a British golf crown. He never hit the ball better ten years ago than he is hitting it now.

"I softened up a little on the competitive side," he told me some weeks ago, "but it will be different now from now on." His recent showing in four big tournaments proves that he is right. He lost his short game touch down the stretch at Inverness or he might have been out there with Burke and Von Elm.

Hagen, like Tilden, has won about everything he could win. When you figure he was United States open champion 17 years ago and look at his golf today, you can see how well he is doing.

Water Rules.

The Bronx beach pool will present one of their main champions of sport this week in the person of Miss Helene Madison, who has broken more swimming records than any woman in the history of any sport within a similar period of time.

Miss Madison, a strong, wiry young lady with an almost flawless stroke, now holds something like 13 records.

A water carnival, which has such stars as Miss Madison, Miss Coleman, Miss Holm and Miss Geraghty, is sure to bring out some of the top performances of the year.

Pot Shots and Nibbles

By Zan Heyward

The following quotations are taken from actual court decisions in numerous states, and are lifted from a book recently published by the du Pont Company, entitled "Wild Game—Its Legal Status." "It has been held that firing at game from a highway is trespass, although the person firing the shot does not go upon the land of the person whose game is taken." "While one purposely leads persons on the land of another in pursuit of game, he is guilty of trespass although he remains off the land while others go on it." "The authorities are uniform in holding that the absolute ownership of wild game is vested in the people of the state, and that such is not the subject of private ownership. As no person has in such game any property rights to be affected, it follows that the legislature, as the representative of the people of the state, and clothed by them with authority to make laws, may grant to individuals the right to hunt and kill game at such terms and under such restrictions as it may see proper, or prohibit it altogether, as the legislature may deem best."

Mrs. Hurd Is Low In Women's Meet

EASTERN POINT, Conn., July 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, former national champion, set the pace for the field of 174 entries in the qualifying round of the Griswold golf tournament at the Shenecton Country Club today.

Her medal score of 78 was five strokes better than that turned in by the runner-up, Mrs. Helen Payson Corson, of Philadelphia. Should Mrs. Hurd win this year she will gain permanent possession of the trophy, having won in 1927 and 1928.

Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., titleholder for the last two years, played erratic golf today and landed in seventh place with 88.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 38

Danger seemed past for the man and the girl. Jason stood looking at the American with frank admiration. Everything about this stranger aroused her interest, curiosity and imagination. He was nothing like she had ever seen. Most astonishing of all, she did not fear him. She had been taught to expect only the worst from men who were not of her tribe. She made no effort to escape. So Jason Gridley found himself not only lost in an unknown land but responsible for the protection of a lovely girl who could understand nothing he said, and whom, in turn, he could not understand.
